SOIL CHECK — Using a probe and soil maps prepared by the Soil Conservation Service, Pickaway County Health Department sanitarian Hugh Barnhill is able to accurately determine if soil in an area will be able to function as a drainage agent for a home sewage system.

Several agencies charged with evaluating prospective home sites prior to construction will work together to make the job easier for themselves and the builder.

Single site evaluations are planned with the builder and representatives of the Pickaway County Engineer's office, the Health Department, the County Planner, and the Soil Conservation Service.

Before, the builder was required to contact each agency to make appointments for on-site evaluation of the property.

Hugh Barnhill, sanitarian for the Health Department, says the plan is a good one, especially since there are more housing starts this year than in the last two.

A big plus for the plan, as Barnhill sees it, is that the representatives as a group, will have an opportunity to discuss each building site with the builder.

"Advice I might give that could conflict with criteria established by another agency can be cleared up on the spot," he said.

The County Engineer's office is responsible for seeing that lot surveys are accurate, that set-back requirements are followed on lots which border county roads, and that drainage of the lot will not affect roads or adjacent properties in subdivisions.

Priscilla Steele, the County planner, checks the lots to make certain they conform to size requirements and that the easements are in order. She also checks the accuracy of the deed.

The SCS office assists by providing detailed information about the soil type and physical characteristics of the lot and the area.

Barnhill's task is to make certain that the home has a properly installed and functional sewage disposal system.

The most popular method is the septic tank with on-lot leech field.

Sewage is pumped into the tank and permitted to settle. Liquids are fed onto the property by means of the leech field, and are either absorbed by the soil or evaporated.

"The system required very little maintenance, Barnhill said, other than an occasional pumping of the tank.

Aeration systems are used in areas where soil type does not allow for sufficient absorption of the sewage.

It is a biological system involving the injection and mixing of air with the sewage to render it between 85 and 98 per cent of the quality of tap water.

Between 8 and 10 per cent of the building sites inspected are disapproved because of the characteristics of the soil or other reasons, Barnhill said.

Builders who disobey orders and proceed with the construction of a home are subject to a court hearing.

Rural builders are also in limbo in several incorporated villages where the Board of Health has imposed building freezes on new construction because of the nature of the soil, sizes of the lots, or other physical characteristics.

Areas where no building is permitted are Ringgold, Commercial Point, New Holland, Williamsport, and Orient.

However, all of the incorporated areas are in the process of attempting to solve sewage discharge problems by construction of a municipal sewage treatment facility.

ROTC Graduations Back On Upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 10,000 college graduates will become military officers this summer, marking the first increase in commissions through the Reserve Officer Training Corps since 1970.

The numbers reflect an apparent turnaround in ROTC enrollment two years ago after a steady eight-year decline resulting from an anti-military mood, often marked by open hostility, on many campuses during the Vietnam war.

The ROTC's recovery appears to be continuing, judging by an 8 per cent rise in enrollments this year to a total of 81,544 men and women cadets at 356 colleges and universities.

The services view the turnaround as vitally important because the college ROTC program is a major source of young officers, particularly for the Army.

In recent years, as never before, the services have been drawing on college manpower for young officers.

All in all, Pentagon officials report, the climate on campus has changed drastically from what it was in the late 1960s and early 1970s when ROTC buildings were attacked and military instructors harassed.

In the 1969-1970 academic year alone, the armed services reported 225 acts of violence aimed at ROTC.

"ROTC buildings and programs provide a visible and convenient target for campus dissidence directed toward the federal government," a Pentagon official told Congress in May 1972.

Damage ran into millions of dollars, according to official estimates.

As a result of student and faculty demands, 14 universities dropped ROTC entirely. Many schools switched from compulsory to optional programs. Some stripped ROTC programs of academic credit.

ROTC hit bottom in the 1974 school year with about 63,300 cadets, the lowest number since World War II.

The following year, enrollment turned upward to 68,000 and this has resulted in increased ROTC officer graduations two years later.

The services began opening ROTC to women in 1969 and their numbers in college units have grown rapidly as the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force widened career opportunities for women officers.

This year's ROTC enrollment includes nearly 15,400 women, a jump of 28 per cent over last year.

Energy Agency Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's plan to create a super energy agency in one of the most sweeping federal reorganizations in history is being sent to the House after winning Senate approval.

After only 6½ hours of debate, the Senate voted 74 to 10 Wednesday to approve Carter's Department of Energy.

In the House, two committees have approved the new department and the full chamber is expected to concur. The House is not likely to vote on the bill, however, until after its members return from the Memorial Day recess.

If approved by both houses, the new Cabinet-level agency will take in 20,000 employees.

The bill's principal sponsor, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., called the new department "the cornerstone" of Carter's energy package.

If enacted, the department will be the first new Cabinet agency since the Department of Transportation was established in 1966.

The President had hoped that the Arrest Girl For Bomb Threat Call

Karen Sue Donahue, 18, Circleville Bible College, has been charged with making a false alarm in connection with a bomb threat at the General Electric Lamp Plant Wednesday night.

Miss Donahue was released on a recognizance bond after her arrest by Circleville Police Ptl. Bill Pontious.

In Municipal Court Thursday morning, Donahue was sentenced to a 30 day term in the Pickaway County Jail and ordered to pay court costs.

The bomb threat was the fourth at General Electric since early March, according to John Raterman, manufacturing engineering supervisor.

"We very much appreciate the help of the police department and General Telephone for following-up on this incident," he said.

A tracing device called a line trap was used to locate the telephone from which Donahue allegedly made the call.

Mary Stevens, a nurse who works on the second shift, received the call at 6:08 p.m., according to Ptl. Pontious.

Using the line trap, officers and telephone company employees discovered that the call had been placed from a telephone registered to Billy J. Murphy, 1476 Lancaster Pike.

When officers confronted Mrs. Murphy at her mobile home at the Circleville Bible College, they were told that she had just returned home from work. She said Miss Donahue had been in the home babysitting with her children.

Donahue was questioned by Ptl. Pontious and St. Jim Francis in the girl's dormitory at the Bible College.

She admitted making the bomb threat, police said.

Raterman said that usually up to 400 employees of GE "clear out" whenever a bomb threat is made.

"It's an economic loss to the employees and the plant," he said.

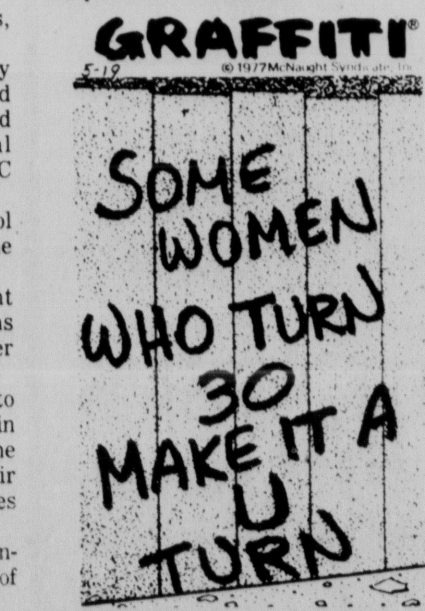

EPA Funds Released For Plant

A grant of $20,100 has been awarded the South Bloomfield-Ashville Sewer District for the first phase of a proposed waste water treatment facility.

The money will be used for facility plans and studies, according to Congressman William H. Harsha.

The current eligible cost of the first phase is $26,800. Federal funding through the Environmental Protection Agency covers 75 per cent of the cost.

The village of South Bloomfield is agent for the action, while Ashville and Millport are co-authors.

proposal, sent to the Congress March 1, would be approved before he delivered his April 20 energy message. The rest of the President's energy program is pending before various congressional committees.

The Senate made one major change in the proposal by Carter and his principal energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, who is in line to head the new department.

Reluctant to give the new secretary excessive powers, the Senate included a four-person board with authority to set prices on oil and natural gas.

Carter had wanted the new secretary to have full authority to control prices and allocations in the natural gas and oil industries.

As approved by the Senate, the department will assume all the functions of the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Energy Administration and the Energy Research and Development Administration.

The FPC controls natural gas and wholesale electricity prices; the FEA controls allocations and price ceilings on crude oil and ERDA investigates potential sources of energy.

The bill would also:

—Give the new agency broad authority to obtain information on the nation's energy reserves. Critics of federal energy policy complain that the energy companies are the only sources of information on reserves.

—Establish strict conflict-of-interest rules for department employees, including prohibitions against owning stock in energy companies and a ban on contacts by high-level department employees with energy companies for a year after leaving the government.

—Give the energy secretary a voice in the leasing of oil, gas and coal rights on federal lands and off the outer continental shelf.

—Transfer some parts of more than 20 different agencies, including the Defense Department, to the new department.

Voter Bill Nears Final Passage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Democrats in the Senate were expected to complete passage today of a controversial election day registration bill which split Ohio's legislature down its political middle.

It passed the House 61-36 Wednesday along strict party lines, with Democrats prevailing, but now returns to the upper chamber for consideration of some relatively minor House changes.

Minority Republicans have fought the measure bitterly in both chambers. They had insult added to injury in the House with approval of a Democratic amendment which apparently blocks a GOP plan to try to have the law repealed in a statewide referendum. They claim instant registration invites massive fraud to the state's election system, among other things.

Even a veto from GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes cannot block the bill from becoming law, with Democrats having veto-proof majorities.

House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, indicated, however, that the GOP may fashion some kind of legal challenge.

Across the Statehouse, on one of the most important days of the 5½-month-old legislative session, senators approved 22-9 a sweeping measure allowing the attorney general to marshal state legal forces against organized crime.

By a vote of 31-0, senators also sent the House a bill enabling the state to crack down on the bootlegging of untaxed cigarettes in Ohio. Sponsors said the proposal could save about $22 million now being lost every year in state tax revenues.

The floor amendment on the registration bill, by Rep. Don S. Maddux, D-90 Lancaster, added a $2.3 million allocation of funds, thus making the bill an appropriations measure. This means the measure would take immediate effect, and would not be subject to the referendum process under the Ohio Constitution.

Republicans, at least some of whom appeared caught off guard by the amendment, said earlier they would try to repeal the law on a statewide ballot if it were approved.

Later, Kurfess said such a move by Democrats had not been discussed at a lengthy party caucus which preceded the floor debate.

Indeed, 24 of the 36 Republicans present in the House on Wednesday voted for the amendment. Asked if they knew it could halt a referendum, Kurfess replied, "They (the Republican members) didn't understand that."

The minority leader said Republicans will look "into the possibility of some kind of lawsuit." For one thing, he said Democrats violated a House rule by not referring the bill to the finance committee for its consideration, as he claims is required for appropriations bills. A formal protest he planned to file on that issue in the House today could form the basis for a lawsuit, Kurfess said.

Minority Whip Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, said he knew beforehand of the Democratic amendment, and felt Republicans supported it chiefly because they knew it would pass anyway, and wanted to be on the record as favoring the $2.3 million required to finance the new registration system.

GRADUATING SENIOR — Matt Sauer, a student at C.H.S., is afflicted with cerebral palsy. In conjunction with National Handicapped Awareness Week, Matt talks about the handicap and his plans for the future.

Although Matt Sauer has lived with cerebral palsy since birth, he plans to attend Wright State University in the fall.

The senior at Circleville High School feels that presently, his "primary responsibility is to get an education."

He felt some apprehension earlier about going on to college, but because Wright State is set up to correctly care for all types of handicapped persons, he has confidence in the school.

According to Matt's understanding of cerebral palsy, his case was caused by lack of oxygen at birth. It affected the right side of his body mainly his legs and right arm. Matt also has an eye imbalance.

The only learning deficiency C.P. has caused Matt is in his ability to spell. Matt has no problem with reading, which is unusual, according to experts in the field, when a spelling impairment is present.

Presently, Matt is taking college prep courses at the high school. He plans to graduate in June with the class.

During school, Matt has been a member of the National Honor Society and on the In The Know team. He was the first male to receive the Search for Family Leadership award at the high school, sponsored by General Mills. Matt said the contest has been open to guys for three years.

Matt is looking forward to attending Wright State because the school is geared to help disabled persons. "The facilities are built for the handicapped, including tunnels between buildings, and elevators," Matt said.

An interesting point is that this is a pilot course offered at Wright State. It is the only school in the country that offers this type of program.

"Also it is the only school in the country that offers training courses in the basics—reading, writing and arithmetic." Matt said he will probably take a course that deals mainly in spelling.

He explained that at the school every student is assigned a counselor. This person can read exams to the student if necessary, and record oral answers. If the student is blind, all the books for the courses are taped.

There are about 300 disabled students on campus at Wright State. The dormitories are totally accessible to the handicapped. Wright State also serves off campus students in the Dayton area.

Matt plans to study education, probably history. His future goal is to become a college professor.

Matt credits his parents with giving him the incentive to learn. "They have given me the confidence to keep up with my studies," he said.

He has learned through the years to accept his handicap. He said if he wouldn't have accepted it long ago, there would have been no hope for his future.

According to figures from the United Cerebral Palsy Association, New York, New York, the overall prevalence is two tenths per cent under the age 21 and one tenth per cent over the age 21.

In Pickaway County, from an estimated population of 44,000, 36 people under 21-years-old have cerebral palsy and 26 people over 21 are afflicted with the handicap.

Obscenity Measure Pushed In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill creating a new crime of "pandering obscenity involving a minor" was unanimously approved Wednesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The bill now goes to the Rules Committee, where its sponsor, Sen. Anthony O. Calabrese Jr., D-25 Cleveland, said he would press for prompt assignment to a floor vote.

It would set penalties of up to five years in jail and a $25,000 fine on first conviction and up to 10 years and a $50,000 fine for repeat offenders. The bill aims at those who produce, distribute, sell or participate in obscene films or pictures depicting children.

"If child pornography is protected by the First Amendment," Calabrese said, "then God help us all."

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market showed some scattered gains today on the heels of the rally of the past four sessions.

Gainers took a 6-5 lead over losers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials hovered around Wednesday's closing level in early trading today.

Chart-watching investors seemed to be taking a wait-and-see approach with the Dow having climbed into the 940s—a point from which it has turned back in some recent rally attempts.

Today's prices included Pickwick International, unchanged at 22½; Texaco, ahead ¼ at 27; Kerr-McGee, up ¼ at 67½, and Federal National Mortgage, ¼ higher at 16.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average climbed 5.43 to 941.91, stretching its advance since last Thursday to 16.37 points.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 2-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 27.80 million shares, up from 22.29 million Tuesday and the heaviest total since 30.49 million were traded April 14.

The NYSE's composite index rose .28 to 54.77.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .63 at 114.94.

President Yacht Bid $286,000

PORTSMOUTH, R.I. (AP) — Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt of Columbus, Ohio thought it was worth an even $200,000. And an Indiana firm offered a modest $1.

They were bidding—unsuccessfully—on the yacht Sequoia, used off and on by presidents from Herbert Hoover to Gerald Ford, which apparently is going to a Rhode Island businessman for a price of $286,000.

Even daredevil Evel Knievel showed an interest in the vessel, which was put up for sale at the direction of President Carter who said it was an unnecessary luxury. Knievel had sent a representative to look at the boat but apparently did not enter a bid.

Bids were opened Wednesday in a small pea green room at the Defense Department's ship sales office here and Leisurecraft Inc. of Cranston, R.I., had the best offer out of 174.

Two bids were for $1. One came from LaPorte County Landscaping Service Inc. of Michigan City, Ind. Another was from David Edward Kester of Auburn, N.Y.

The Sequoia was purchased by the government for $200,000 in 1931 and reportedly used on occasion by President Hoover that same year after the presidential yacht Mayflower partially burned.

The boat was officially fitted out as the presidential yacht in 1933 and used by President Franklin D. Roosevelt until 1936 when she was replaced by the Potomac.

The secretary of the Navy used the Sequoia as his official yacht from 1936 to 1968. She was again refitted for presidential use and served Presidents Johnson, Nixon and Ford.

During the Watergate scandal, Nixon frequently used the yacht as a retreat.

Carter, who had never been aboard the yacht, said he decided to sell it because maintenance and salaries for 59 crew members cost $800,000 per year.

Civil Service Data Secure

STEVENSON, Wash. (AP) — Skamania County's Civil Service test papers are so tightly secured they may never be seen again.

"Today we are looking for a safecracker," chuckled Gary Olson, the county's Civil Service Commission chairman.

It seems Olson bought a cabinet with a small safe in which to store the papers, then stashed it in the sheriff's office basement.

When he tried to show the cabinet to other commissioners, the safe refused to open. A store worker had no better luck and Olson now awaits another retail representative to determine what's wrong.

Sheriff Bill Clossner says one of his deputies has completed a locksmith's course but Olson wants the store to solve the problem.

Might there be anyone lodged in the county jail who could help?

"Presently, I don't have any of that talent," Clossner replied.

New Single-Family Home Skyrockets In Asking Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — An average new single-family home similar to the one you could have bought for $24,600 in 1967 costs $52,300 today, the Commerce Department reports.

That's more than a 100 per cent increase in 10 years.

In the first three months of this year, the cost of an average single-family home rose 5.3 per cent, about double the increase of the previous several quarters, according to the Census Bureau.

"This was the strongest quarterly rise in prices since at least the housing boom of 1972-73," said Adren Cooper, economic information officer in the Commerce Department.

Although the Census Bureau report did not try to explain the reasons for the dramatic increase, Cooper suggested that an increase in demand could be responsible, along with such other factors as higher construction costs.

Why the rise in demand? "That's very hard to pin down," Cooper said. "We've been in a recovery (from the recession) now for two years, incomes are rising

"The demand doesn't surprise anyone. That strong of an increase doesn't surprise anyone," he said.

The government records a housing price index, which is based on a Census Bureau survey of the selling prices and physical characteristics of new single-family homes. The index measures the changes in the costs of similar houses.

The housing price index for the first three months of 1977 was 209.6 compared with 199.0 in the previous quarter and 184.2 for the first three months of 1976. The base year of 100 is 1967.

This year's first quarter index was 13.8 per cent higher than a year ago. So that means the $52,300 home that is the average today is $2,000 more than it was in the last quarter of 1976. The index reveals that a similar new home sold for $22,200 in 1963, $30,300 in 1971, $35,600 in 1973 and $42,900 in 1975.

Unfortunately, the incomes of homeowners and renters have not kept pace with the rising cost and demand for housing, other census studies have shown.

A study released in April showed that the failure of family incomes to keep up with housing costs has halted the growth in the proportion of Americans who own their own homes.

Dangerous Ex-Cons Back With Violence

SEATTLE (AP) — Silent for more than a year, the bombers and bank robbers who call themselves the George Jackson Brigade are back, threatening violence and planting more explosives.

The FBI says the brigade is a band of dangerous ex-convicts, but local political radicals believe the group is leading the push for a subject they know well — prisoners' rights.

The brigade claims responsibility for two pipe bombs found in banks at Redmond and Bellevue a week ago. The one at Redmond exploded in a safe deposit box. No one was injured. Police defused the other bomb.

In a communique issued to two local radio stations, the brigade said it planted the bombs to support the complaints of prisoners in the Washington State Penitentiary at Walla Walla.

The communique said prisoners, confined to cells for 40 days after hundreds of them started fires and looted the prison store, are being terrorized and abused by prison officials.

It accused the Seattle Times of biased and distorted prison reporting which it said disregarded legitimate inmate complaints — accusations the Times has denied.

A local radical political group, the Left Bank Collective, says the brigade's new activities are understandable. The collective said Wednesday that it has tried for months to bring the prisoners' side to news outlets and been ignored.

"Is it any wonder that in the face of inhumanly violent conditions inside the prison walls, ex-prisoners would resort to counter-violence as a way of drawing the public eye to their plight?" the collective said.

The brigade claims to be better organized and financed than it was in early 1976, when most members were captured in an abortive bank robbery attempt at nearby Tukwila.

One member was killed in a shootout with police. Two others, both ex-convicts, are serving prison terms for bank robbery and assault. A fourth man accused of the robbery attempt, John Sherman, escaped in March 1976.

Sherman has been charged by a federal grand jury with robbing an Oregon bank. A woman who the FBI says has lived with Sherman, Rita

Darlene Brown, has been charged with another Oregon bank robbery.

The brigade claims to have bankrolled itself with six such bank holdups in Oregon.

Dangers Of 'Pill' Outlined

BOSTON (AP) — Two Harvard experts say the risk of heart attack is so great that women over 40 and younger women who smoke or have high blood pressure should not take birth control pills.

Dr. Brian MacMahon and Dr. Charles Hennekens issued the warning in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Theirs is yet another opinion in a widening debate over the use of oral contraceptives.

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed a revised labeling of oral contraceptives warning that use is not recommended in women over 40 because of the increased risk of heart attacks.

However, in March, a research analyst for The Population Council suggested that the risks for the general female population over 40 are less than was feared — as long as they don't smoke.

"This is not a widely held opinion," Hennekens said of his new warning, in an interview. "It is based on our research in the field and other people's research. It is our own conclusion."

Hennekens said a pattern of dangerous side effects had begun to emerge from studies compiled on women who take the pill.

"For women over 40, whatever the risks or lack of risks that may come out later, the evidence is enough for us to recommend that they not use the pill," Hennekens said. "Women under 40 should use it only in the absence of other risk factors (such as smoking)."

A series of studies conducted by different researchers shows that women who take birth control pills are three to five times more likely to die from heart attack than other women, the doctors wrote.

New Single-Family Home Skyrockets In Asking Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — An average new single-family home similar to the one you could have bought for $24,600 in 1967 costs $52,300 today, the Commerce Department reports.

That's more than a 100 per cent increase in 10 years.

In the first three months of this year, the cost of an average single-family home rose 5.3 per cent, about double the increase of the previous several quarters, according to the Census Bureau.

"This was the strongest quarterly rise in prices since at least the housing boom of 1972-73," said Adren Cooper, economic information officer in the Commerce Department.

Although the Census Bureau report did not try to explain the reasons for the dramatic increase, Cooper suggested that an increase in demand could be responsible, along with such other factors as higher construction costs.

Why the rise in demand? "That's very hard to pin down," Cooper said. "We've been in a recovery (from the recession) now for two years, incomes are rising

"The demand doesn't surprise anyone. That strong of an increase doesn't surprise anyone," he said.

The government records a housing price index, which is based on a Census Bureau survey of the selling prices and physical characteristics of new single-family homes. The index measures the changes in the costs of similar houses.

The housing price index for the first three months of 1977 was 209.6 compared with 199.0 in the previous quarter and 184.2 for the first three months of 1976. The base year of 100 is 1967.

This year's first quarter index was 13.8 per cent higher than a year ago.

So that means the $52,300 home that is the average today is $2,000 more than it was in the last quarter of 1976. The index reveals that a similar new home sold for $22,200 in 1963, $30,300 in 1971, $35,600 in 1973 and $42,900 in 1975.

Unfortunately, the incomes of homeowners and renters have not kept pace with the rising cost and demand for housing, other census studies have shown.

A study released in April showed that the failure of family incomes to keep up with housing costs has halted the growth in the proportion of Americans who own their own homes.

Dangerous Ex-Cons Back With Violence

SEATTLE (AP) — Silent for more than a year, the bombers and bank robbers who call themselves the George Jackson Brigade are back, threatening violence and planting more explosives.

The FBI says the brigade is a band of dangerous ex-convicts, but local political radicals believe the group is leading the push for a subject they know well — prisoners' rights.

The brigade claims responsibility for two pipe bombs found in banks at Redmond and Bellevue a week ago. The one at Redmond exploded in a safe deposit box. No one was injured. Police defused the other bomb.

In a communique issued to two local radio stations, the brigade said it planted the bombs to support the complaints of prisoners in the Washington State Penitentiary at Walla Walla.

The communique said prisoners, confined to cells for 40 days after hundreds of them started fires and looted the prison store, are being terrorized and abused by prison officials.

It accused the Seattle Times of biased and distorted prison reporting which it said disregarded legitimate inmate complaints — accusations the Times has denied.

A local radical political group, the Left Bank Collective, says the brigade's new activities are understandable. The collective said Wednesday that it has tried for months to bring the prisoners' side to news outlets and been ignored.

"Is it any wonder that in the face of inhumanly violent conditions inside the prison walls, ex-prisoners would resort to counter-violence as a way of drawing the public eye to their plight?" the collective said.

The brigade claims to be better organized and financed than it was in early 1976, when most members were captured in an abortive bank robbery attempt at nearby Tukwila.

One member was killed in a shootout with police. Two others, both ex-convicts, are serving prison terms for bank robbery and assault. A fourth man accused of the robbery attempt, John Sherman, escaped in March 1976.

Sherman has been charged by a federal grand jury with robbing an Oregon bank. A woman who the FBI says has lived with Sherman, Rita

Darlene Brown, has been charged with another Oregon bank robbery.

The brigade claims to have bankrolled itself with six such bank holdups in Oregon.

Dangers Of 'Pill' Outlined

BOSTON (AP) — Two Harvard experts say the risk of heart attack is so great that women over 40 and younger women who smoke or have high blood pressure should not take birth control pills.

Dr. Brian MacMahon and Dr. Charles Hennekens issued the warning in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Theirs is yet another opinion in a widening debate over the use of oral contraceptives.

The Food and Drug Administration has proposed a revised labeling of oral contraceptives warning that use is not recommended in women over 40 because of the increased risk of heart attacks.

However, in March, a research analyst for The Population Council suggested that the risks for the general female population over 40 are less than was feared — as long as they don't smoke.

"This is not a widely held opinion," Hennekens said of his new warning, in an interview. "It is based on our research in the field and other people's research. It is our own conclusion."

Hennekens said a pattern of dangerous side effects had begun to emerge from studies compiled on women who take the pill.

"For women over 40, whatever the risks or lack of risks that may come out later, the evidence is enough for us to recommend that they not use the pill," Hennekens said. "Women under 40 should use it only in the absence of other risk factors (such as smoking)."

A series of studies conducted by different researchers shows that women who take birth control pills are three to five times more likely to die from heart attack than other women, the doctors wrote.

Seeking Energy Examples

Probably the most asked question in the upcoming energy debate will be: Your plan is very fine on paper, but how do you know it will work? Will higher gasoline prices — even doubling the current levels — produce less consumption? One answer to that, of course, is that gasoline prices have doubled and then some in the last four years and the growth of consumption faltered only temporarily. Another example is provided by Japan. The love of the average Japanese for his auto is second only to that of the average American. In most things energy-related the Japanese are very frugal. Central heating is limited to only a few homes. Utility rate structures are geared to escalating charges as consumption increases. Hot water is conserved by family bathing. But transportation is the exception. Gasoline prices have more than doubled since 1970 — to about $1.68 a gallon.

Public transportation is reliable and rapid. Roads are poor and perpetually crowded. Despite all that, the number of cars in Japan has nearly doubled in this decade. One out of four Japanese is a car owner. Higher fuel costs and other inconveniences have not dampened motoring enthusiasm. The Japanese motorist even now is paying more for the use of his vehicle than the Carter plan would entail, with no apparent efforts to conserve.

Lindberghs Hated Publicity

By PHYLLIS BATTELE
NEW YORK — Fifty years ago this week, Charles Lindbergh completed the most publicized flight in history. And 48 years ago next week, Lucky Lindy married Anne Morrow in the least publicized celebrity ceremony in history... It was May 26, 1929. Anne Morrow's mother invited a few intimate friends, by telephone, to "drop in" at their home in Englewood, N.J., the following day. The implication was that there would be an informal luncheon. In mid-afternoon as the guests were chatting out on the lawn, Mrs. Morrow began circulating among them, urging them to come into the living room. They complied, gradually. Among the guests was the pastor of a local church, one Rev. Brown. Suddenly, Anne Spencer Morrow "rolled casually into the room, wearing a white dress and carrying flowers. Charles Lindbergh stepped to her side, and Rev. Brown quickly, quietly, moved in front of them. Without fuss, and to the total surprise of each of the guests, a wedding ceremony was conducted. A few minutes later, the couple slipped out of the house and into a car, and sped away. No one (on the record) ever found where they spent the next 10 days. On June 6, reporters at last tracked down the couple, cruising in a sailboat off the coast of Maine. For hours, groups of reporters circled their craft, shouting questions, demanding answers. Anne disappeared below the deck and refused to come up. Lindy stoically, silently, sailed on. As though he were alone. At nightfall the pursuers finally gave up the chase, and the couple disappeared in their sailboat. Several days later, the newlyweds made their first public appearance at an important aviation event. One of the reporters who swarmed around them asked, audaciously, if it were true that

Anne was pregnant. Lindbergh turned pale and did not reply. Neither Lindbergh nor Anne Morrow Lindbergh granted an interview after that day. There is a widespread impression that the tragedy surrounding the kidnapping death of their first son was responsible for turning Lindbergh and his wife into virtual recluses. But, according to close friends, his dislike of fame and distrust of the press began long before that. On their wedding day. He was a Minnesota farm boy who never talked much, even in the days when he might have used the press for his own benefit. Reporters who followed his preparations for the Spirit of St. Louis flight in a single engine craft across the Atlantic found him frustratingly spare with words. When he went to a restaurant and purchased five sandwiches for the journey, reporters urged him to stock up more lavishly. "If I get to Paris," Lindy said, "I won't need any more. And if I don't get to Paris, I won't need any more either." Probably he was the best pilot in America in 1927, but he didn't talk about it. Four times, while flying airmail between St. Louis and Chicago, he had been lost in fog and forced to ditch his plane and jump for his life. He refused to discuss the events.

After he landed in Paris and became an international hero, he flew around America, exploiting aviation — but never himself. He turned down million-dollar contracts to star in movies and endorse cigarettes (he never smoked or drank, and even gave up coffee in fear it might spoil his reflexes). He wasn't scornful of money; he accepted offers from Pan American and Transcontinental Air Transport (later TWA) to become a consultant. The way those deals were arranged, with plentiful stock options, made him a millionaire almost overnight.

With wealth and fame, he began to move quietly in the circles of the very rich; and Anne was daughter of ex-Morgan partner, Dwight Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, when they met while Lindy was in Mexico City on a goodwill mission. In later life, he served on the board of Pan-Am and traveled constantly, incognito. Few people ever recognized him. One airline executive was bemused to see Lindbergh a few years ago on a crowded New York subway, clinging to a strap.

"I didn't even say hello," the businessman said. "Can you imagine the mayhem that would have occurred if some bright subway rider had bothered to take a second look, and realized who that handsome white-haired gentleman was?" Charles Lindbergh would have been 75 during this week's international observance of his history-making flight. It would have been hard for him to escape the publicity. But those who knew him bet he would somehow have managed...

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

The high fiber diet raised a lot of fuss in the last couple of months. Have doctors had a chance to come to any conclusions as to its real value? I teach a high school class in nutrition. I don't want to push too hard if the concept of high fiber is still unsettled.

— Miss D.L., Mass.

Dear Miss L.: The current interest in high fiber diet is an idea that was first conceived many years ago. A British physician, Dr. Denis Burkitt, revived interest in the high fiber diet in 1970.

Dr. David Reuben, in a recent book, picked up the battle cry for high fiber diet that has captured the attention of the American people.

Fiber in foods is that portion that is not digested. The kind and content of the fiber varies with different vegetables, cereals and fruits. Fiber, when eaten, absorbs a great deal of water and passes in an undigested state through the stomach, and small and large intestines.

It is thought that with a high fiber diet, toxic materials, cancer-producing substances and even cholesterol are more rapidly excreted in the stool, and thus benefit the general health.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — When the body of an Indianapolis grocery chain heiress was found in her home, wide-eyed police carted out more than $5 million in cash she had secreted in her home.

Now the claims are pouring in from fortune hunters seeking the estate of Marjorie Jackson, 66. "The reason I'm claiming the entire estate is Jesus says I was a messenger for him," wrote one claimant.

Another read that the victim's late husband traced his lineage to President Andrew Jackson, said he too was a descendant and added, "I even have one of Andrew Jackson's dueling pistols."

Authorities said Mrs. Jackson began withdrawing her fortune from banks after a bank employee was convicted of embezzling from her account. Police believe her killers might have stolen as much as $6 million.

What have doctors learned from the swine flu fiasco? — Mr. H.S., Iowa

Dear Mr. S.: Detractors of the swine flu program overlook some remarkable aspects of the history of its origin.

The world was threatened by an epidemic that recalled the millions who died of this disease in 1918.

Epidemiologists are remarkable in their ability to predict epidemics and to trace the origin of diseases. When they anticipated this flu epidemic, Federal agencies immediately set to work to produce a vaccine that would protect all of us.

The complications that arose could not be foreseen.

It is our hope that the problems that arose will not stop parents from continuing to keep up to date immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio and measles.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The two big economic conferences of May produced similar public announcements of confidence, but somewhat more as an expression of hope than as a detailed analyses of all the facts.

The London summit conference of the heads of seven large industrial nations resulted in a public commitment to their mutual goals of jobs, trade, growth and price stability.

Change the rhetoric only slightly and you have a description of the major problems facing the big trading nations — the United States, Canada, Japan, Britain, France and Germany. Present problems are corrected in future goals.

Free trade, to discuss just one of these factors, is fine in theory and infinitely difficult in practice. At the moment, various American industries are seeking protection from foreign imports. To them, free trade is ruinous.

At Hot Springs over the past weekend, some of the nation's top business executives, members of the private Business Council, expressed their faith that the economy was riding a smooth track into the future.

They had plenty of documentation: personal income up, industrial production rising, capital spending seeming to improve, interest rates and prices showing some signs of holding within limits, housing booming.

Privately, the businessmen were inclined to describe some of the obstacles they fear could slow the economic locomotive and conceivably even derail it. But they didn't claim to know exactly what to do about them.

Business people are a bit worried about President Carter. While they probably feel more secure about the economic philosophy of Carter the President than Carter the candidate, they cling to misgivings.

Is Social Security to be saved by higher contributions from business? Are dividends to remain double taxed? Will the investment tax credit be raised? Will Carter's policies promote capital investment?

There are more general problems too. Will this nation be able to resolve the energy shortage without further crises? Will pressure groups, for reasons good or bad, prevent utilization of coal resources?

While it doesn't have the popular appeal of some issues, it is safe to declare that business is very worried about its ability to raise money for expansion. And in that concern are wrapped a lot of others.

The two conferences therefore were alike in publicly declaring their hope and faith that all would be well, and alike in what wasn't declared publicly but which later becomes obvious anyway, that goals aren't solutions.

It is when you must deal with the real present rather than the ideal future that you recognize how tough it all is day by day. In all such decisions somebody must be hurt, and we can't seem to decide who it should be.

Lutheran Circles Hold Womens Dinner

"Reach Out to Mothers and Daughters" was the theme used for the Mother-Daughter Dinner held Sunday evening in the parish house of Trinity Lutheran Church. The dinner theme was taken from the Women of the Church bible study for the year.

Serving as toastmistress for the evening was Mrs. William Meyers who welcomed all present and read "Motherhood" and "What is a Grandmother." The response was given by members of a three-generation family, Cheryl Dresback, Mary Easter and Martha Kimmel.

The dinner was served by the men of the church, organized by Marion Good and Bertus Bennett. Invocation preceding the dinner was given by Mrs. Carl Zehner.

Mrs. Louis Weigand provided piano accompaniment for group singing following the dinner.

Highlight of the evening was a puppet show presented by Mrs. David Amey,

New Holland, who based her theme on "The Vinegar Boy" by Alberta Haus. Mrs. Amey has been engaged in puppetry for 16 years and is a member of Puppetry of America and Columbus Puppetry Guild.

Honor awards were presented by Lissa Ruhl to Mrs. Lawrence Kimmel, who had the most generations present; Kim Hamilton, the child with the most recent birthday; Karen Troutman, who was born the greatest distance from Circleville; and to Mrs. Ervin Kocher, the oldest mother present.

General chairman for the occasion was Mrs. Marion Good, stewardship chairman for Women of the Church. Assisting her were Sarah, Rebecca and Esther Circles who prepared the programs, Ruth Circle who provided the decorations, and Rachel Circle who arranged for the honor gifts. Tables were set up by Mary Circle and name tags made and presented by Elizabeth Circle.

Mrs. William H. Hulse Speaker For Monday Club

The Monday Club met in general session on May 9, with Mrs. E. Miller Hundley presiding.

Mrs. William H. Hulse was the speaker for the evening, her subject — The Visual Arts.

She cited the difficulties women have had in getting recognized in the field of arts even though they had been accepted as contributors in the literary arts.

Mrs. Hulse pointed out that women had often been the subjects of visual arts rather than its executioners, citing the nudes of Renoir, Reubens, Titian and Gauguin.

"In looking at the slight number I recognized women artists as compared to the number of male ones makes us wonder" she questions, "if women received fewer artistic gifts, or do they perhaps feel the burden of exercising these gifts more heavily because they are women?"

One of the famous and greatest women artists of all time is Mary Cassatt, a painter and also foremost in the field of etching. She was born in Philadelphia and pursued her study of art in France. Her favorite subjects were mother and child.

Another painter is Georgia O'Keeffe and considered by Mahouri Sharp Young of the Columbus Art Gallery as the greatest American painter since Mary Cassatt. This artist received her training in the United States.

Then there is Grandma Moses who is not to be ignored even though her work is primitive. Her work and name are probably more recognized than any woman artist.

In her talk Mrs. Hulse did not neglect the local women who have become important in the field of art. Among these are Ruth Montelius, Betty Griffith, Vally Rahe, Tella Kitchen and not forgetting members of the Circleville Art League.

Martha Circle Meets In Church Parlor

On April 30, Martha Circle assisted with the serving of the roundtown Secretaries Luncheon. Mrs. Musselman thanked members for their help. She also announced chicken noodle dinner has been cancelled.

Martha Circle had 22 reservations for the May Fellowship Dinner. Mrs. Louella Donahoe and Mrs. Minnie Steinhauser helped prepare food for this dinner.

On June 1, the June breakfast will be held at Jean Schieber's cottage at Hargus Lake. Reservations will be necessary.

Irma McGill discussed arrangements for the Berry wedding reception on May 21. Various members were assigned duties.

Devotions were given by Jeanette Chilcote and program on Moses given by Maxine Andregg. She wore appropriate costume she had purchased in the Holy Land on a recent trip.

Hostesses for this meeting were Louella Donahoe, Minnie Bales and Minnie Steinhauser.

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

had in getting recognized in the field of arts even though they had been accepted as contributors in the literary arts.

Mrs. Hulse pointed out that women had often been the subjects of visual arts rather than its executioners, citing the nudes of Renoir, Reubens, Titian and Gauguin.

"In looking at the slight number I recognized women artists as compared to the number of male ones makes us wonder" she questions, "if women received fewer artistic gifts, or do they perhaps feel the burden of exercising these gifts more heavily because they are women?"

One of the famous and greatest women artists of all time is Mary Cassatt, a painter and also foremost in the field of etching. She was born in Philadelphia and pursued her study of art in France. Her favorite subjects were mother and child.

Another painter is Georgia O'Keeffe and considered by Mahouri Sharp Young of the Columbus Art Gallery as the greatest American painter since Mary Cassatt. This artist received her training in the United States.

Then there is Grandma Moses who is not to be ignored even though her work is primitive. Her work and name are probably more recognized than any woman artist.

In her talk Mrs. Hulse did not neglect the local women who have become important in the field of art. Among these are Ruth Montelius, Betty Griffith, Vally Rahe, Tella Kitchen and not forgetting members of the Circleville Art League.

Funeral services were held on May 10 for Jerry (Alva L.) Black of Tower Road, Pataskala. He was the son of Forest and Hattie Black of Sams Creek Rd., Laurelville. Death occurred in University Hospital on Saturday, May 7. He was an employee of Legg and Davis for 18 years. Survivors besides his parents are his wife, Vernice, sons Jerry R. of Whitehall, Gary Lee and Larry L. of the home, a daughter, Mrs. Debra Skinner of Lancaster, 2 grandchildren, three brothers, Olen (Jack) of Circleville, Burlin and Don of Route 2, Laurelville. Funeral services were held in the Summit Baptist church with burial in the Pataskala cemetery.

It never rains but it pours is an old, old saying. And so it has been with the cooks at the Laurelville school the past week. First, Mrs. Mildred Karshner suffered a badly lacerated hand which required several stitches and she was unable to return to work. Over the weekend, Mrs. Ada Steele became ill and was taken to the Ross Medical hospital where she is a patient. On Saturday Mrs. Ruth Reid fell at her home and broke her arm. An S.O.S. was sent out to Mrs. Jewell Hinton, supervisor of the cooks in the Logan Elm school district and she sent Mrs. June Poling and Mrs. Violet Thompson of the McDowell building and Mrs. Phyllis Swackhammer, a substitute cook for the district to the Laurelville school to take charge of the cafeteria for the present time.

It was nice to receive a call last Monday from a former Laurelville resident who knew my Dad and many others who lived here in the early 1900's. The caller was Jacob Steele of near Columbus who is a subscriber of the Circleville Herald where he reads the Laurelville news items. He remarked about having a severe winter and he recalled that as a boy in Laurelville, about 1907-08 or 1909 it was so cold that he and two other boys were able to ice skate on Laurel Creek from just north of the village to the bridge at the foot of the Rock House hill and back. At that time both Laurel and Salt Creek were wider and deeper and when they froze the ice was deep and hard enough that it stayed frozen for some time.

In the evenings and on weekends the young people would build a bonfire and go skating. George and Anna Bowers, my aunt Lucretia and my Dad have entertained me many times with those stories. I have always been sorry I never thought of writing down some of the things they told me about Laurelville for they were here when the town was first growing. According to the History of Hocking County, Laurelville was established as a town in Dec. 1871, my Dad was born in 1879.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Exceptional' Can Mean 'Beautiful'

DEAR ABBY: I was saddened by the recent letter concerning the birth of an abnormal child. The parents were depressed, and friends wondered if they should acknowledge the birth or "ignore the tragedy."

I am the biological mother of six children, and I, too, dreamed of the "perfect" infant during my pregnancies. I can understand the trauma associated with the birth of an "imperfect" child. But if only these parents can see their way through this initial period of shock, guilt and dismay, these emotions will subside, and they might learn to recognize the magnificent human spirit that lives within each and every one of these children. Each child has something unique to give. To see the child who is "slow" achieving his level of accomplishment, no matter how small, is so gratifying!

As parents of 19 children-13 of whom are adopted and eight of whom are severely handicapped-we, too, have learned a beautiful lesson. The child who is handicapped, be it physically or mentally, is possessed by a certain spark, perhaps a compensating factor put there by God.

Whatever it may be, if we the so-called "normal" people will nourish that spark we will discover that not only the lives of these children but also ours will be immeasurably enriched.

GRATEFUL
DEAR GRATEFUL: Thank you for a beautiful letter, which gives me the opportunity to publicize AASK (Aid to Adoption of Special Kids), a non-profit, publicly supported tax-exempt organization. AASK serves as an adoption agency, exclusively for handicapped children with special needs. For information write to Box No. 11212, Oakland, Calif. 94611.

Scioto Society Plans Clean Up Of Sugarloaf

Suffering from cabin fever after a long winter indoors? Come join the Scioto Society Board of Trustees in the beautiful outdoor scenery of Sugarloaf Mountain and help prepare for the fifth season of America's fastest growing outdoor drama, "Tecumseh!"

"Days on the Mountain" will be held on Saturday, May 21 and Sunday, May 22 from 9 a.m.-6 p.m. Everyone is invited to spend the weekend neiping with "Tecumseh's" spring cleaning. Planned activities include raking, shoveling and hauling away winter's debris, sprucing-up actors' dressing rooms and public areas, digging out the erosion behind the rain shelter, cleaning the stage area and preparing the camp sites.

Hammers, rakes, shovels, buckets and cleaning materials are sparse, so bring them along if possible. Also, for those ravenous appetites hard work inevitably leads to, you should bring a sack lunch or covered dish. Scioto Society Board members will supplement your food by providing dishes served in the rain shelter.

Come support your tri-county's own "Tecumseh!" and spend a day with nature at the same time.

Of the 56 men who signed the U.S. Declaration of Independence, more than half were judges or lawyers.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old daughter has graduated from high school and has a steady job, so now she says she can do as she pleases. She is living at home, but pays no room or board.

Her "old-fashioned" parents want to know if we have the right to set some rules for her. We have asked her to be home by 1 a.m. when she goes out on a date. (She's been coming home anywhere from 2 a.m. until 4:30.) When we object to her going to her boyfriend's bachelor apartment to watch TV for an evening, she says we have "dirty minds."

She tells us if we don't "get off her back" she will move out and rent with girlfriends. We want her to live at home. She wants to be independent. Please give us some guidelines.

BEWILDERED
DEAR BEWILDERED: Tell your daughter to sit down with a pencil and paper, and figure out exactly how "independent" she is. Tell her that when she is able to support herself entirely—which means paying for room, board, clothes, transportation, entertainment, travel, doctor, dentist, and insurance—then she may live where she chooses and by her own rules. But as long as she lives with you, she will have to live by yours.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SILVER SPRINGS": All men do NOT cheat on their wives. But it's a pretty safe bet that the man who says that they do cheats on his!

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

If you're in your element with nonfiction, you'll be in your element this week in the Children's Room of the public library. New books in this section cover a variety of projects from the abstract to the concrete.

Curious about what goes on between taps and reveille? "Dreams" presents interesting facts about dreams, including modern scientific knowledge as well as ancient beliefs. (154.6)

After learning about ancient dreams delve into ancient religion. Doris Gates' "A Fair Wind for Troy" is an excellent retelling of the events leading up to the Trojan War. Highly recommended as are her other books on Greek mythology. (292)

Move up in time to the Middle Ages with "Merry Ever After." Brightly illustrated, this book describes Medieval marriage customs and rites by taking the reader through the engagements and weddings of a wealthy couple and a peasant couple. (392)

Artistically told and illustrated is "The Contest," an Armenian folktale about two robbers who unknowingly court the same girl. (398.2)

"State Birds and Flowers" lists and pictures, as the title indicates, the birds and flowers which each of the fifty states have selected for their own. Furthermore, it provides basic information about each bird and flower mentioned and includes small maps of each state. An introduction to nature as well as geography. (500.0)

If you plan to spend part of your summer vacation outside fiddling with motors and karts, read "Midget Motoring and Karting" before you get started. Here you can find easy instructions for building a midget car and answers to a lot of the how's and why's of cars and motors in general. (629.22)

Heat getting you down? Cool off with "I Love Ice Cream," a small book crammed with tidbits on this favorite dish and its history. Includes recipes for ice cream and a variety of ice cream dishes. (641.48)

For a scholarly approach to Indian lore, spend a leisurely afternoon with "The Art of the Woodland Indians." Liberally sprinkled with photographs of museum pieces, the text surveys the arts and crafts of the forest-dwelling Indians of the northern Atlantic seaboard and Great Lakes region. (799.01)

The next time it rains stay in and have fun with "Ed Emberly's Great Thumbprint Drawing Book." Create unusual art work following the instructions for making a variety of shapes and figures using thumbprints and a few simple lines. (741.2)

At this time of the year, one can't omit baseball, so... for sports fans, we have "The Catcher — Baseball's Man in Charge." Based on interviews with major league managers, scouts, and players, this book examines the art of catching in depth. (796.357)

New Israeli Leader Seeking Coalition

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Menachem Begin, propelled to the threshold of power by his conservative Likud party's election victory, began a search today for coalition partners to give him a majority in the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

High on his agenda was a conference with Shimon Peres, whose defeated Labor party ruled Israel since its birth in 1948. Begin has asked Labor to join a national unity government, but several Labor party sources said there was little chance such a coalition could be formed.

Begin campaigned on a platform demanding annexation of the West Bank of the Jordan river, which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 war. The Laborites talked about exchanging part of the territory for peace with the Arabs but planned to ring the area with Israeli civilian settlements or military posts.

The 63-year-old Likud leader

adopted two key policies of previous Labor governments Wednesday. Speaking at a news conference, he called for direct negotiations, with "no prior conditions," between Israel and the Arab governments it has fought in four wars and rejected "any externally-devised formula for a settlement" from the United States or the European Common Market.

But Begin said he believes "President Carter will keep his commitment" to the pledge in the Democratic presidential campaign platform to work for direct Arab-Israeli negotiations "without any externally-devised formula for a settlement."

The new U.S. ambassador to Israel, Samuel W. Lewis, arrived in Tel Aviv Wednesday and pledged the United States would "never seek to impose" its will on Arab-Israeli negotiations. The statement appeared aimed at calming Israeli fears that Carter was preparing a peace plan and might try to force its acceptance by threatening to reduce military and economic aid to the Jewish state.

Woman Hurt When Car Strikes Bike

A 22-year-old Circleville woman was injured when her bicycle was hit by a car 12:59 p.m. Wednesday on N. Court St.

Heidmare G. Anderson, 135 Pleasant St., was admitted to Berger Hospital for treatment of multiple contusions and a compression fracture of the spine.

Driver of the car involved in the crash was Beverly Jean Tracy, 28, 1310 S. Pickaway St.

According to the report of Circleville Police Ptl. Jim Ford, Ms. Anderson was riding south in the left lane when she crossed to the curb lane which was occupied by the Tracy car.

Anderson was thrown 17 feet from point of impact, he said.

Emergency first aid was rendered by members of the Circleville Emergency Medical Team.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

If you're in your element with nonfiction, you'll be in your element this week in the Children's Room of the public library. New books in this section cover a variety of projects from the abstract to the concrete.

Curious about what goes on between taps and reveille? "Dreams" presents interesting facts about dreams, including modern scientific knowledge as well as ancient beliefs. (154.6)

After learning about ancient dreams delve into ancient religion. Doris Gates' "A Fair Wind for Troy" is an excellent retelling of the events leading up to the Trojan War. Highly recommended as are her other books on Greek mythology. (292)

Move up in time to the Middle Ages with "Merry Ever After." Brightly illustrated, this book describes Medieval marriage customs and rites by taking the reader through the engagements and weddings of a wealthy couple and a peasant couple. (392)

Artistically told and illustrated is "The Contest," an Armenian folktale about two robbers who unknowingly court the same girl. (398.2)

"State Birds and Flowers" lists and pictures, as the title indicates, the birds and flowers which each of the fifty states have selected for their own. Furthermore, it provides basic information about each bird and flower mentioned and includes small maps of each state. An introduction to nature as well as geography. (500.0)

If you plan to spend part of your summer vacation outside fiddling with motors and karts, read "Midget Motoring and Karting" before you get started. Here you can find easy instructions for building a midget car and answers to a lot of the how's and why's of cars and motors in general. (629.22)

Heat getting you down? Cool off with "I Love Ice Cream," a small book crammed with tidbits on this favorite dish and its history. Includes recipes for ice cream and a variety of ice cream dishes. (641.48)

For a scholarly approach to Indian lore, spend a leisurely afternoon with "The Art of the Woodland Indians." Liberally sprinkled with photographs of museum pieces, the text surveys the arts and crafts of the forest-dwelling Indians of the northern Atlantic seaboard and Great Lakes region. (709.01)

The next time it rains stay in and have fun with "Ed Emberly's Great Thumbprint Drawing Book." Create unusual art work following the instructions for making a variety of shapes and figures using thumbprints and a few simple lines. (741.2)

At this time of the year, one can't omit baseball, so... for sports fans, we have "The Catcher — Baseball's Man in Charge." Based on interviews with major league managers, scouts, and players, this book examines the art of catching in depth. (796.357)

New Israeli Leader Seeking Coalition

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Menachem Begin, propelled to the threshold of power by his conservative Likud party's election victory, began a search today for coalition partners to give him a majority in the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

High on his agenda was a conference with Shimon Peres, whose defeated Labor party ruled Israel since its birth in 1948. Begin has asked Labor to join a national unity government, but several Labor party sources said there was little chance such a coalition could be formed.

Begin campaigned on a platform demanding annexation of the West Bank of the Jordan river, which Israel captured from Jordan in the 1967 war. The Laborites talked about exchanging part of the territory for peace with the Arabs but planned to ring the area with Israeli civilian settlements or military posts.

The 63-year-old Likud leader

adopted two key policies of previous Labor governments Wednesday. Speaking at a news conference, he called for direct negotiations, with "no prior conditions," between Israel and the Arab governments it has fought in four wars and rejected "any externally-devised formula for a settlement" from the United States or the European Common Market.

But Begin said he believes "President Carter will keep his commitment" to the pledge in the Democratic presidential campaign platform to work for direct Arab-Israeli negotiations "without any externally-devised formula for a settlement."

The new U.S. ambassador to Israel, Samuel W. Lewis, arrived in Tel Aviv Wednesday and pledged the United States would "never seek to impose" its will on Arab-Israeli negotiations. The statement appeared aimed at calming Israeli fears that Carter was preparing a peace plan and might try to force its acceptance by threatening to reduce military and economic aid to the Jewish state.

Woman Hurt When Car Strikes Bike

A 22-year-old Circleville woman was injured when her bicycle was hit by a car 12:59 p.m. Wednesday on N. Court St.

Heidmare G. Anderson, 135 Pleasant St., was admitted to Berger Hospital for treatment of multiple contusions and a compression fracture of the spine.

Driver of the car involved in the crash was Beverly Jean Tracy, 28, 1310 S. Pickaway St.

According to the report of Circleville Police Ptl. Jim Ford, Ms. Anderson was riding south in the left lane when she crossed to the curb lane which was occupied by the Tracy car.

Anderson was thrown 17 feet from point of impact, he said.

Emergency first aid was rendered by members of the Circleville Emergency Medical Team.

Wise Homeowners Purchasing Smoke Detectors

EDITOR'S NOTE: The smell of smoke may be the first signal that your house is on fire. But you may not notice the smell until it's too late. A growing number of Americans are giving themselves extra protection by installing smoke detectors. Here, in the third of a three-part series, is a look at some of the things you should know.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Thousands of lives and billions of dollars in property are going up in flames each year, and many Americans are turning to home smoke detectors to lessen their chances of being one of the losers.
The National Fire Prevention and Control Administration estimates that sales of smoke detectors may reach the $200 million mark by 1980, up from $87 million last year.
The agency would like to see the devices in 25 per cent of American homes by 1980 and in 75 per cent by 1990.
Smoke detectors have gotten a boost from state and local authorities who are requiring them in some or all new buildings. Such regulations are in effect in more than 30 states, according to the fire prevention unit.

The proliferation of models — Underwriters Laboratories says 98 brands of smoke alarms meet its standards this year, up from only four in 1970 — has caused problems for consumers trying to buy wisely.
"Too often ... the consumer has inadequate knowledge of the workings of detectors and of placement and servicing once he has purchased one or more detectors," said a spokesman for the National Bureau of Standards in the Department of Commerce.
Most experts agree that the detectors have the potential to save lives. Commerce Department studies show that smoke detectors could cut deaths from home fires, now about 12,000 annually, by more than 40 per cent.
Howard Tipton, administrator of the fire prevention unit, calls the home smoke detector "the most significant technological weapon our nation has to reduce fire deaths and destruction."
According to government experts, smoke detectors generally cost between $30 and $50, although some models may be slightly more expensive, depending on such extra features as test buttons.
All of the smoke alarm systems work by sensing the rising smoke from a fire and sounding a warning. Don't worry about sleeping through the alarm. "They make an atrocious noise," explained one owner.

There are two types of detectors on the market: photoelectric and ionization chamber. Both can detect smoke far from the origin of the fire.
The photoelectric detector uses a photoelectric bulb that sends forth a beam of light. When smoke enters the detector, light from the beam is reflected from the smoke particles into a photocell and the alarm is triggered.
The ionization chamber model contains a small radiation source that produces electrically charged air molecules called ions. The presence of the ions allows a small electric current to flow in the chamber. When smoke particles enter the chamber, they attach themselves to the ions and reduce the flow of electric current. The change in the current sets off the alarm.
(Government and private testing agencies have rejected claims the small amount of the radiation produced by the ionization models is dangerous; before any detector is placed on the market, the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission performs a radiation safety analysis to make sure that the model meets safety requirements.)

Manufacturers of ionization models claim that their alarms can respond more quickly to invisible fume particles. The National Bureau of Standards says, however, that both types of detectors "are equally effective in the home" if properly installed. They say ionization detectors generally will react more quickly to flaming fires, but photoelectric models respond faster to smoldering fires.
You may want to install both kinds of detectors, but the authorities stress that there is no need to.
The detectors are powered by batteries or by household current. The battery-operated models — usually of the ionization variety — are easier to install, but you will have to replace the batteries approximately once a year at a cost of $2 to $10.
Battery-operated detectors approved by a recognized testing agency such as Underwriters Laboratories — UL — are required to sound a trouble signal — a sort of chirping sound — when the batteries need to be replaced. The signal usually lasts for seven days. If you will be away from home for a long period of time, check your alarm when you return.
Detectors which operate on household current may be plugged into an existing outlet or permanently wired into the home's electrical system. If you choose the first option, make sure the outlet does not operate with an on-off wall switch, since you could turn the detector off accidentally. If you want a permanently wired system, you will need an electrician for installation. Expect to pay between $25 and $50.
Like the battery-operated devices, the detectors that run on current include a warning — usually a light — to indicate that the power is functioning.
If you are unsure about which model to buy or where to install it, check your local fire department. As a general rule, the best place for any alarm is on the ceiling or high on an inside wall just below the ceiling. (That's because smoke rises.) If your home has more than one story, you will need a detector on every level. The detector for the first floor should be placed on the ceiling at the base of the stairwell.

In the basement, the alarm should be located on the ceiling at the bottom of the stairway.
Detectors should be installed near enough to bedrooms so that the alarm can be heard if the door is closed. The detector should not be installed within three feet of an air supply register that might blow the smoke away.
You also should keep the detector away from air conditioners and fans. It generally is not a good idea to place the alarm in the kitchen or too close to a fireplace because of the possibility of false alarms.

False alarms also can be set off by dirt. Dust or vacuum the grillwork regularly and check the detector once every 30 days, using the test button if there is one, or blowing smoke into the unit.
All alarms should be used in connection with a family escape plan. According to the Bureau of Standards, a smoke detector in working condition will usually give you at least three minutes to evacuate the house. Hold fire drills so all family members know how to get out quickly. Don't try to fight the fire yourself. Choose a meeting place outside the house so you will know whether everyone has escaped. Once all family members are safe, go to a neighbor's and call the fire department.

Carter's Gasoline Plan Puts Bite On Wallet

WASHINGTON (AP) — You — yes, you — can save up to five hundred dollars a year, if you buy a snappy little economy car instead of a big, clumsy gas guzzler.

That's the commercial President Jimmy Carter wants to sell Congress and the nation.

If they buy it, Carter hopes, the United States will cut its gasoline consumption 10 per cent or more, by 1985, below its 1977 level.

Of course, when Carter sent his message over to Congress last April 20, he phrased it less flamboyantly: he proposed a tax on gas-guzzling cars, a rebate on economy cars, taxes on crude oil and standby taxes on gasoline.

Under Carter's proposals, drivers would pay more per mile of travel, but drivers of gas-guzzlers that deliver low miles-per-gallon performance would pay more than the others; and those buying brand new gas-guzzlers would pay the most.

Compared with a new high-economy car, a new gas-guzzler in 1985, travelling 10,000 miles a year, could cost its owner $500 a year extra — a total of some $5,000 over its normal 10-year lifetime.

Carter figures that should be enough to steer a lot of people away from big cars to the small-car showrooms, and to make them spend a little less time on the road as well.

If so, U.S. gasoline consumption may be reduced from an estimated 7.33 million barrels per day this year to 6.6 million by 1985.

The 10 per cent reduction, about 730,000 barrels a day, really represents 3.8 million barrels a day less than the amount American drivers would burn by 1985 if they kept their big cars and road-roaming habits.

Congress, in fact, took the first step away from gas-guzzlers in 1975 when it set auto efficiency standards requiring an average of at least 27.5 miles per gallon for new cars in 1985, a 40 per cent improvement.

An auto maker who fails to meet the standard can be fined up to $100 per car.

But a Carter administration official said in an interview: "There is some thought and some evidence that these penalties may be insufficient."

"The auto makers may be willing to pay the penalties, instead of meeting the standards which might cost them even more," he said.

Auto industry executives say they plan to meet the standards.

The Carter official added, there is some doubt whether those drivers eager for big flashy gas-guzzlers today will buy the new economy cars tomorrow.

Carter's answer to these fears was the "guzzler tax," actually a series of proposed auto taxes that get larger as fuel economy falls farther below each year's rising standards.

For example, a new 1978 car getting 18 to 19 miles per gallon would carry no tax penalty in Carter's plan; but one getting 17 to 18 miles per gallon would be taxed $2. A real guzzler getting less than 13 miles per gallon would be taxed $449.

By 1985, the break-even standard would climb to 27.5 miles per gallon. New cars delivering less than that would be taxed from $67 to as much as $2,488 for those that get less than 12.5 miles per gallon.

On the other hand, Carter proposed to pay rebates to the purchasers of gas-saving cars, ranging from $47 at 19 miles per gallon to $449 at 36 miles per gallon in 1978.

In 1985, the rebates would range from $62 at 28.5 miles per gallon to $440 at 37.5 miles per gallon.

The Carter official said taxes and rebates were intended "to help move the demand side toward meeting the standards or better." In other words, to tempt more people to buy small cars.

If Congress' standards for new cars are met, the Transportation Department estimates, the average performance of all cars on the road, old and new, should rise from about 13.6 miles per gallon in 1975 to about 21 miles per gallon in 1985.

But gasoline savings will not match the automobile improvements, because there will be more cars on the road and more people to drive them in an expanding population.

And Americans have a habit of driving a little bit more each year. If past trends continue, the auto standards alone would save more than 3.36 million barrels of gasoline a day by 1985.

But that would still be about 439,000 barrels per day short of Carter's goal.

To take that final step, the public would have to cut down its driving a little — or to be more exact, to increase its driving less than otherwise.

In the past, the number of miles driven per person in the United States has increased about 4 per cent a year; Carter's goal could be met if driving increased only about 3 per cent a year.

Carter's public persuader is a proposed "standby gasoline tax."

Carter would allow gasoline consumption to increase slowly through 1980, but then it would be targeted to drop year by year to the 1985 goal.

Each year that this schedule is violated, a gasoline tax of five cents per gallon would be added starting in 1979.

By 1985, the extra gasoline tax could total 35 cents per gallon.

Also included are special onetime tax breaks for sick-pay recipients, elderly persons and Americans who worked abroad in 1976. These temporary changes are designed to delay for one year the effective date of some parts of the big tax law package passed last year.

Missing is the major element contained in the bill when it was proposed by Carter in an effort to spur the sluggish economy. Carter had wanted $50 rebate checks mailed to about 200 million Americans in an effort to boost consumer spending and the economy.

Opposition to that plan was quick in coming. Republicans wanted a big permanent tax cut instead. Democrats wondered about the effectiveness of the rebate idea. In the end, it was Carter himself who junked the plan, announcing last month that the economy had improved to the extent that no further tax stimulus was needed.

But Carter has proposed separate taxes on crude oil that might add another five cents to the cost of gasoline, so by 1985 the driver could be paying 40 cents more at the pump than he does now.

Administration economists figure that should be enough, apart from any other price increases that may occur, to slow the growth of automobile travel and meet Carter's gasoline-saving goal.

But, of course, it would cost the driver more money: in a 37-miles-per-gallon car, he would pay $108 more to drive 10,000 miles; in a 21-miles-per-gallon car, $190 more; in a 12.5-miles-per-gallon car, he would pay $320 more.

Carter has proposed returning the oil and gasoline tax money to the public through equal rebates to all citizens.

Small-car families would find their extra driving costs reduced or eliminated in the long run, and might even make a modest profit on the deal.

But the equal rebates would be too small to wipe out the larger costs of big-car families who would continue to pay a penalty for the appetites of their gas-guzzlers.

Observers of Congress think the tax on gas-guzzling cars and rebate on economy cars have a good chance to be adopted.

The crude oil tax, which would add about five cents per gallon to the costs of gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products, faces opposition from forces who want oil price controls lifted instead. But either way, roughly the same gasoline price hike is anticipated.

The standby gasoline tax, however, is in deep trouble in Congress and many prominent members including the influential Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., have said it will fail.

That would save drivers substantial amounts of money; it remains to be seen whether they would be grateful enough to save substantial amounts of gasoline in return.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Kindly come back with a necktie," said the judge to a lawyer appearing before him in an open-collared shirt. When the lawyer refused to comply, the judge cited him for contempt.

Was the judge acting within the scope of his authority? An appellate court held that he was indeed.

"Historically," said the court, "lawyers have been subject to regulation (by judges) even in matters so personal as the growth of their beard or the cut of their dress."

This doctrine is based on the special role of lawyers as "officers of the court." As such they are expected to show due deference to the judge's standards of decorum, so long as those standards are within reason.

Another case involved the flamboyant hat which a woman lawyer wore in court. Warned by the judge, she returned the next day wearing another hat — equally flamboyant.

The judge reprimanded her and, on appeal, his action was upheld by a higher court.

"There is no law on the subject of women's hats," said the court. "It is, therefore, a matter that rests within the discretion of the individual judge."

There is some tendency, however, to go easier on laymen than on lawyers. In a traffic case the defendant was asked by the judge to wear a tie and jacket. Even though the defendant could easily have done so, he refused as a matter of principle.

And this time, an appellate court ruled that the defendant's refusal did not amount to contempt.

Pointing out that he had no official role in the administration of justice, the court said his unconventional attire could not fairly be considered an obstacle to the orderly process of the law.

Joan Crawford Will Cuts Off 2

NEW YORK (AP) — Joan Crawford left $77,500 each to two adopted children, but nothing to the other two "for reasons which are well known to them," said a will submitted in Manhattan Surrogate Court.

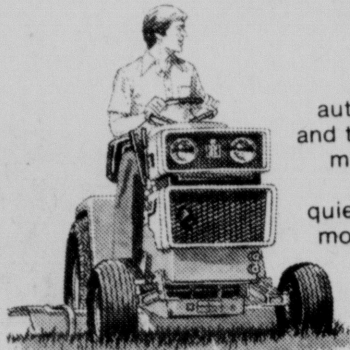

The actress, who died May 10, also provided $70,000 for seven other persons and said the remainder was to be shared by eight charities.

The will dated last October accompanied a petition Wednesday asking permission to open two safety-deposit boxes which may contain a later will or amendment. There was no estimate of the estate's value.

The document said no provision was made for son Christopher Crawford or daughter Christina Crawford. The daughters receiving bequests were Cathy LaLonde and Cynthia Crawford Jordan.

Mrs. Phillip Merinar of North Canton spent last week with her cousin, Mrs. Luadah Hartman.

Kingston Senior Citizens are busy getting ready for Senior Citizens Day on Thursday, May 19 at the Ross County Fair Grounds. They will have a booth or table this year and will display and perhaps offer for sale some of the crafts they have been working on. Refreshments will be available and there will also be entertainment. The hours are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Mrs. Pat Davis and the family are happily awaiting the arrival of David Evans, sometime this week. His mother says his ship the U.S.S. Trenton put in at the Norfolk, Va., Naval Base last Thursday and young David will have about two weeks here with his family. David joined the Trenton last November after taking basic training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Edler returned home last Tuesday after visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Noland at their home in Franklin, Tenn.

A son, Ryan Lewis, was born May 11 to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Alexander (Jackie Donahue) in Largo, Florida. He weighed 8 lbs. 9 oz. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Donahue, Clearwater, Fla. and great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Betz, Kingston.

Friday overnight guests of Mrs. Eleanor Ross were her two sisters, Mrs. Lena Buskirk and Mrs. Chet Cochran of Lancaster and two of her three daughters, Mrs. Wm. Beavers of Chillicothe and Mrs. Donald Dearth of Hallsville.

Wednesday afternoon callers of Mary Miller were her nieces, Mrs. Evelyn Rogers and Mrs. Nettie Woltz of Lancaster and a great-niece, Miss Anita Tucker from Calif.

Graveside services were held at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery last week for Mr. Frank Simon of Cincinnati, son-in-law of Mrs. Joseph Mauger. He was married to her daughter, Edith.

The May meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Kingston Volunteer Firemen was held last Monday evening at the Firehouse with fourteen members present. Mrs. Curtis Handley conducted the business meeting and announced that to date (Mon.) their representative on the Walk-a-thon had been pledged $700 and his record time was two hours. He is Scott Brenner, a V.F. and a 1975 graduate of Zane Trace High School where he was on the track team, so he ran the distance instead of walking.

The next meeting on June 13 will feature a Tupperware party, with Mrs. Betty Wolfe of Columbus as the demonstrator. All Auxiliary members have catalogues and order blanks so anyone wishing to order early, just call a member. Some new pieces are not in the catalogue yet but the demonstrator will have them. All are welcome and the party will be conducted the same way it is in a home.

Zane Trace Junior High School will close for the summer on June 3 and have its Commencement on the following Sunday with teachers workday on Monday, June 6. Kingston Senior Citizens are busy getting ready for Senior Citizens Day on Thursday, May 19 at the Ross County Fair Grounds. They will have a booth or table this year and will display and perhaps offer for sale some of the crafts they have been working on. Refreshments will be available and there will also be entertainment. The hours are from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Mrs. Pat Davis and the family are happily awaiting the arrival of David Evans, sometime this week. His mother says his ship the U.S.S. Trenton put in at the Norfolk, Va., Naval Base last Thursday and young David will have about two weeks here with his family. David joined the Trenton last November after taking basic training at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

He is Scott Brenner, a V.F. and a 1975 graduate of Zane Trace High School where he was on the track team, so he ran the distance instead of walking.

The next meeting on June 13 will feature a Tupperware party, with Mrs. Betty Wolfe of Columbus as the demonstrator. All Auxiliary members have catalogues and order blanks so anyone wishing to order early, just call a member. Some new pieces are not in the catalogue yet but the demonstrator will have them. All are welcome and the party will be conducted the same way it is in a home.

Zane Trace Junior High School will close for the summer on June 3 and have its Commencement on the following Sunday with teachers workday on Monday, June 6. Contributions are welcome and may be brought to the school house on Thursday or Friday evenings of that week between 6 and 8 p.m. A truck will be available if anyone has large objects for donation (compliments of Mrs. Gary Pontious). County Gets License Tax

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) has released another monthly advance of $986,166.00 in an unprecedented eighth installment of 1976 license revenues for distribution among county and local governments across the state.

Pickaway County's share was $1,915. Warrant requests for this distribution have been forwarded to the State Auditor, and will be ready for mailing to each county by May 26.

This latest disbursement brings total payments to local governments from motor vehicle registration revenues received during the 1976 license year to more than 159 million.

The revenue collected by the BMV for motor vehicle registration throughout the state is returned to local governments for their use in street and highway maintenance and repair projects. All motor vehicle owners currently are able to purchase the required registration for non-passenger vehicles at local deputy registrars.

Registration of passenger cars by owner's whose last name falls in the L through Z category may also be made now. All vehicles must display the 1977 registration validation sticker by midnight, May 31st.

poppies are made by veterans in hospitals and workshops in 40 states. These disabled servicemen are paid for each hand-made poppy they make, and the materials are furnished free by the American Legion Auxiliary in the state where the hospitals are located. So, please wear a poppy this week-end.

Poppy Day is sponsored each year by the American Legion Auxiliary to remind Americans of the sacrifice of life and health made by the men of our Armed Forces.

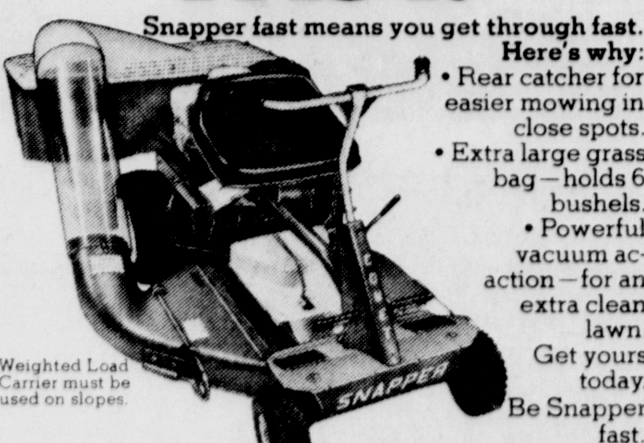

Auxiliary 730 will be holding their Poppy Day on Saturday, May 21, in Ashville and South Bloomfield, and they will again ask everyone to wear a poppy in honor of the veterans. All money dropped into the contribution boxes is used for the welfare activities of the American Legion and Auxiliary and aids disabled veterans, their families, and the families of deceased servicemen.

County Gets License Tax

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) has released another monthly advance of $986,166.00 in an unprecedented eighth installment of 1976 license revenues for distribution among county and local governments across the state.

Pickaway County's share was $1,915. Warrant requests for this distribution have been forwarded to the State Auditor, and will be ready for mailing to each county by May 26.

This latest disbursement brings total payments to local governments from motor vehicle registration revenues received during the 1976 license year to more than 159 million.

The revenue collected by the BMV for motor vehicle registration throughout the state is returned to local governments for their use in street and highway maintenance and repair projects. All motor vehicle owners currently are able to purchase the required registration for non-passenger vehicles at local deputy registrars.

Registration of passenger cars by owner's whose last name falls in the L through Z category may also be made now. All vehicles must display the 1977 registration validation sticker by midnight, May 31st.

poppies are made by veterans in hospitals and workshops in 40 states. These disabled servicemen are paid for each hand-made poppy they make, and the materials are furnished free by the American Legion Auxiliary in the state where the hospitals are located. So, please wear a poppy this week-end.

Several letters have been returned to the Ashville Alumni Officers for incorrect addresses or in some cases the person has moved with no forwarding address. President Impounds Atom Funds

NASHVILLE (AP) — President Carter has announced he will impound $31.8 million of the current year's appropriation for the Clinch River breeder reactor project in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

In his deferral message to the House Wednesday in Washington, Carter said he is postponing spending for the liquidmetal fast breeder reactor demonstration plant while Congress re-evaluates the controversial project.

Current contracts would not be affected by the deferral, but the action would preclude the program's incurring obligations for new contracts. Some 400 persons currently are employed in Tennessee by the Clinch River project.

Earlier Wednesday, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said he would oppose Carter's attempts to halt the project. He said he and Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., "plan to take whatever measures are necessary" to keep the breeder alive.

Baker said he expected either a deferral or rescission message to reach the Senate today.

Under the 1974 Budget Control and Impoundment Act, either the House or the Senate can vote to overturn a deferral.

If Carter had decided to rescind spending for the breeder, or cut it out altogether instead of deferring spending, the rescission would have gone into effect immediately unless both houses opposed it.

Carter has said he wants to cut funds for the Clinch River project from $150 million to $33 million in the fiscal 1978 budget.

In the 1977 budget Congress appropriated $237 million for the Oak Ridge project. It is uncertain how much of that money had been spent in the first half of the fiscal year.

Sasser said Wednesday that he and other members of the Tennessee congressional delegation and Gov. Ray Blanton will meet with Carter next Wednesday to discuss matters of interest to Tennessee, including the Clinch River project.

rodeo in Circleville on June 4. Anyone wishing to have their bike inspected for safety is welcome. Each bike passing inspection will receive a cub scout bike sticker for the fender.

Just thought I'd mention: On Mother's Day, among the mothers present at the Derby Church and receiving a beautiful potted plant were Mrs. Mae Delay for being the eldest mother, Debbie Clifton, the youngest, newest (and happiest) mother and Mrs. Geraldine McPherson, as the mother with the most children. Mrs. Naomi Puckett, last year's winner, and Susie Furniss also a youngest mother, both received corsages.

Florence Ball still a patient at Doctor's West Hospital, is scheduled for surgery this Monday. We wish her our best.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Ohnewehr of Westerville were the weekend house guests of Mrs. Mae Delay. They enjoyed Mother's Day dinner at the Harvest Hill with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ohnewehr, Clyde and Beth, and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Gresh called on the Ohnewehrs and Mrs. Delay.

The Derby Garden Club members appreciate the many folks who braved the stormy weather to attend their plant sale. It was a big success and plans are being made for a dry, sunny sale next year.

NEW SCOUTS — Five new members of Boy Scout Troop 52 were awarded the rank of Scout at the Troop's 1977 Court of Honor Monday at the Community United Methodist Church. They are, from the left, Greg Armstrong, Jim Schoby, Todd Justus, Brad Blecha, and David Myers. Eart Hughes was not pictured. New rank of Tenderfoot went to Blecha, Myers, and Mark Tener; Second Class awards went to Shane Crago and Don Foster; First Class awards went to Kevin Cook, Gene Justus, Tyler McCain, Kris Rahe, Tim Tener, and Rick West; and Life awards were given to David Angles and Greg Hewitt.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The curator of the Malabar Farm State Park's farmhouse, has until Monday to appeal a Franklin County Court of Appeals ruling that he could not buy property and sell it to the state while a state employee.

Carroll J. Solomon, who has been on a leave of absence for several months, bought a small tract of land near the Richland County farm in 1973 under an arrangement with then Natural Resources Director William B. Nye, who agreed to buy it later when state money became available. Solomon paid $23,000 for the land.

Nye contracted to buy the land for $26,302 on Jan. 3, 1975, only a few days before leaving office.

Nye's successor, Robert Teater, cancelled the deal when he took office and the department has no plans to buy the parcel of land at the entrance to Malabar Farm.

Solomon filed suit in the Court of Claims to force consummation of the deal and when the claims court ruled against him, he took the case to the appeals court.

Dems Keep Secret Caucus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Senate Democrats have voted to keep their caucuses closed despite sharp criticism from some Republican senators.

The issue flared up Wednesday during debate on otherwise non-controversial rules of procedure for committee and floor sessions that were adopted 28-3.

Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, offered an amendment to the rules to require traditionally private political party caucuses to be open-door meetings, unless specifically closed by a two-thirds vote.

Republicans, outnumbered 21-12, had little to lose, since their minority position permits them only a minimal impact on policy.

White noted that the open meetings or "sunshine bill" passed in 1975 required majority parties in local government offices to conduct open caucuses.

"But you've created a wonderful exception for yourselves," he said. "The sun cannot put its rays over the shoulders of members when they are deciding how they should vote."

House Changes Tandem Vote Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Democrats have performed major surgery on a Senate bill setting forth how Ohio's governor and lieutenant governor would run as a team in the 1978 elections.

Majority members of the House Governmental Affairs Committee, with some Republican aid, changed the bill Wednesday night so that the candidates for the top offices would pair up as a team to run in next year's primary election, as well as the general election.

Under the Senate version, candidates for governor and lieutenant governor would have to be nominated on their own in the primary, and then run in tandem in the November election.

The bill is certain to wind up in a joint conference committee to try to reach a compromise. Political ramifications abound in the situation.

Ohio's voters, in June 1976, approved a constitutional amendment providing for tandem elections. However, the amendment left it up to the legislature to determine the primary election process.

The dispute looms as a major

Dry Days Helpful To Farmers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

High pressure continues stationary over Tennessee and very warm—well above normal—temperatures will hold for Ohio.

Field operations — Good agriculture progress is likely today through the weekend. A few scattered thundershowers were reported across Ohio Wednesday afternoon and evening, but on a quite scattered basis. It looks like most field operations will be able to continue today through the weekend. Some of those spring plowed seedbeds intended for soybeans may be getting a little dry. Prospects for any generally wetting are small today through the weekend. Then a chance of scattered thundershowers is indicated for about Monday. Drying rates will be moderate with evaporative losses around 0.25 of an inch daily through Friday.

Transplanting — Warm temperatures in mid to upper 80s will continue to stress newly set plants in afternoons today through the weekend. In home gardens watering will be needed and in fields setting in adequate moisture will be very necessary.

Forage Harvesting — Moderate curing rates will be occurring through the next four day periods. Any scattered wetting risks will be small today through weekend then increase about Monday. Central and northern Ohio alfalfa should now be near the first bloom stage.

Insect buildup — Some of the warm season insects will build-up fast under the current weather conditions. Mites, rosy aphids and potato leaf hoppers are examples.

GTE Trains Employees

Two employees of General Telephone Company of Ohio have completed courses at the company's technical training school at Marion.

Jerrilee A. Conrad of 27724 Kingston Pike has completed a course covering methods for assigning telephone numbers and equipment.

Conrad is an assignment clerk in the company's Circleville district.

Phyllis A. Young, Lancaster, has completed a course covering all phases of billing procedures, including customer bill inquiries.

Young has been with General for eight years and works in the company's Circleville district.

The school's curriculum includes more than 90 courses and seminars. Classroom training helps employees to develop job skills and to keep pace with technological advancement.

problem for majority Democrats, based in no small measure on the fact that the party's two top legislative leaders, Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, and House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, both are potential candidates for governor next year.

Ocasek supported that Senate bill, and the House committee, headed by Rep. Michael Del Bane, D-56 Hubbard, is believed by many to have yielded to the wishes of the speaker.

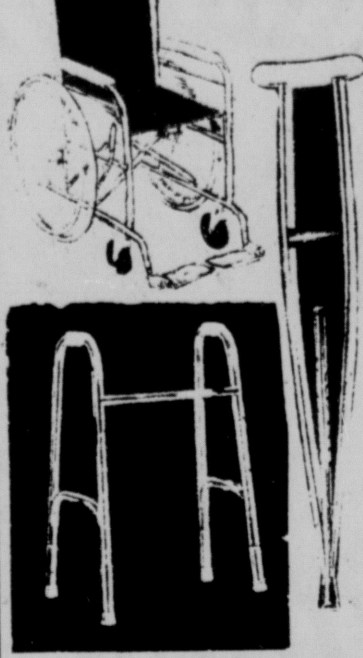

The logic has it that Riffe, representing a relatively sparsely populated area of southern Ohio, would want a free hand to pick a running mate from a big city, such as Cleveland, to give his ticket better geographic balance.

Ocasek, on the other hand, already well established in heavily populated northeastern Ohio, could settle for the people's primary election choice, without concern if his running mate happened to come from a rural area.

Rep. Michael G. Oxley, R-82 Findlay, and Rep. C.J. McLin Jr., D-36 Dayton, with two other committee members, voted against the primary team-up, but for slightly different reasons.

Oxley said he was sure that the House bill would "disenfranchise" rural counties in the selection process.

AWARD MEETING — Edwin Irwin of the Irwin Insurance Agency Inc., Ashville was a guest of the Buckeye State Mutual Insurance Companies at the Tenth Annual Production Award Meeting May 13 and 14 at the Imperial House South, Dayton. Over 130 of the company's agencies were represented and honored for outstanding sales production in 1976. In order to qualify for such honors certain goals are set forth each year for the company's 250 agencies. Those agencies equaling or exceeding the requirements are duly recognized at the Annual Awards Meeting, according to Buckeye State Mutual's Sales Manager, Gary R. Carder. Irwin has twice been honored by membership in the Presidents Club which recognizes the company's leading producers.

District 10 is composed of 22 F.F.A. chapters in eight southern Ohio counties.

Star awards presented to other outstanding F.F.A. members include: Star Scholarship, Gary Davis; Star Notebook, Anne Shelton; Star Record Books, Tim Sowers; Most Improved Senior Horticulture Student, Greg Stevens; Most Improved Senior Ag

Dems Keep Secret Caucus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Senate Democrats have voted to keep their caucuses closed despite sharp criticism from some Republican senators.

The issue flared up Wednesday during debate on otherwise non-controversial rules of procedure for committee and floor sessions that were adopted 28-3.

Sen. Walter L. White, R-12 Lima, offered an amendment to the rules to require traditionally private political party caucuses to be open-door meetings, unless specifically closed by a two-thirds vote.

Republicans, outnumbered 21-12, had little to lose, since their minority position permits them only a minimal impact on policy.

White noted that the open meetings or "sunshine bill" passed in 1975 required majority parties in local government offices to conduct open caucuses.

"But you've created a wonderful exception for yourselves," he said. "The sun cannot put its rays over the shoulders of members when they are deciding how they should vote."

House Changes Tandem Vote Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Democrats have performed major surgery on a Senate bill setting forth how Ohio's governor and lieutenant governor would run as a team in the 1978 elections.

Majority members of the House Governmental Affairs Committee, with some Republican aid, changed the bill Wednesday night so that the candidates for the top offices would pair up as a team to run in next year's primary election, as well as the general election.

Under the Senate version, candidates for governor and lieutenant governor would have to be nominated on their own in the primary, and then run in tandem in the November election.

The bill is certain to wind up in a joint conference committee to try to reach a compromise. Political ramifications abound in the situation. Ohio's voters, in June 1976, approved a constitutional amendment providing for tandem elections. However, the amendment left it up to the legislature to determine the primary election process.

The dispute looms as a major

Dry Days Helpful To Farmers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

High pressure continues stationary over Tennessee and very warm—well above normal—temperatures will hold for Ohio.

Field operations — Good agriculture progress is likely today through the weekend. A few scattered thundershowers were reported across Ohio Wednesday afternoon and evening, but on a quite scattered basis. It looks like most field operations will be able to continue today through the weekend. Some of those spring plowed seedbeds intended for soybeans may be getting a little dry. Prospects for any generally wetting are small today through the weekend. Then a chance of scattered thundershowers is indicated for about Monday. Drying rates will be moderate with evaporative losses around 0.25 of an inch daily through Friday.

Transplanting — Warm temperatures in mid to upper 80s will continue to stress newly set plants in afternoons today through the weekend. In home gardens watering will be needed and in fields setting in adequate moisture will be very necessary.

Forage Harvesting — Moderate curing rates will be occurring through the next four day periods. Any scattered wetting risks will be small today through weekend then increase about Monday. Central and northern Ohio alfalfa should now be near the first bloom stage.

Insect buildup — Some of the warm season insects will build-up fast under the current weather conditions. Mites, rosy aphids and potato leaf hoppers are examples.

Golfing Greats Set For Muirfield Play

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — It was like old times—Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer, once professional golf's Big Three, honing their games in front of a huge gallery. "It's been two or three years since we all played together," Player said of the famed threesome that owns a collective 141 tour titles and 29 major championships.

The dominance of the Big Three has so eroded that only Nicklaus has an American tour victory in 1977. And only Player expressed confidence of winning the $225,000 Memorial Tournament starting today. "I feel I will have a win. It's just a matter of continuing to play. I'm confident," said Player on Wednesday after matching Nicklaus' practice round of three-under-par 69.

Palmer had 74. Andy Bean shot 73 with his celebrated partners. "It's a disadvantage for me playing on my own course," said Nicklaus, who created this $7 million Muirfield Village layout in rolling farmland of central Ohio four years ago.

"I'm not really overwhelmed with my game now," said the 47-year-old Palmer. "It's a matter of building back my confidence I've lost over the last few years. I'm not making as many birdies as I've had."

At this point of the year, Nicklaus has withstood the charge of the Young Lions. He's won at Inverrary and the Tournament of Champions and finished in the top seven in six of nine starts. His $157,000-plus ranks him third in 1977 earnings.

Player also has appeared in nine American tournaments. His best finish was a second to Nicklaus at Inverrary. The little South African stands 17th on the money list with more than $58,000. Palmer, four-time Masters champion, has missed the cut four times in 11 events. Only four of his 37 rounds have been in the 60s. He's 99th on the money list with under $11,000.

Nicklaus showed his partners the subtleties of Muirfield's lush fairways and slick greens. Palmer was seeing the course for the first time. Player played in a pro-am at Muirfield Village two years ago.

Both were complimentary of Nicklaus' creation.

Tiger Girls Rally Brings Victory

Sue Radcliff slammed a double in the bottom of the seventh inning to plate the winning run and give the Circleville Tigers an 11-10 come-from-behind win over Amanda-Clearcreek.

Jane Cole hurled the win for the Tigers while Rodgers and Cranford shared the mound for the losers. Karen Lundberg had a triple and three singles, Becky Peters two doubles and three singles, Mary Wyatt two singles, Penny Perkins two singles, Wanda Boyd a homer and single, Sue Radcliff a double and single, Michelle Nolan a double and two singles, Jane Cole a home run while Kathy Morehart and Melissa Allison each had a single.

Circleville is now 12-2 for the season, 4-1 in the South Central Ohio League where they are co-champions with Miami Trace, and will host Hamilton Twp. 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Todd Gibson Wants Rain On Brickyard

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—For Todd Gibson, it's a waiting game. The 40-year-old driver from Richmond, Ohio, had his No. 22 racing car on the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway for several laps Wednesday, but was only running in the low 180s.

"It's still slippery," Gibson said of the track, a common complaint from most of the drivers as the oil and rubber collected in the groove after 12 days of traffic with no rain to wash off the race course.

"We were doing 186 last week and hoping to get 188-190. But it's gotten awfully slippery. We're doing 181 right now. Last week we had several laps at 188.

"We want to get in (the 33-car starting field) solid. We'd like to have 190. That would put us in sure," Gibson said in his garage Wednesday.

Gibson was out twice during qualifications last Saturday but didn't take the green flag for an actual qualification attempt either time. He went out for the first time at 12:55 p.m. in his Eagle-Offenhauser and took three warmup laps before coming in without taking the green flag. His next time out at 5:15 p.m. was a repeat performance of the earlier run.

Gibson passed his driver's refresher test at the Speedway on May 7, the first day the track was open for practice. "We put a new motor in (this week) and we're breaking it in right now. We're trying to get it dialed in. We're not pushing too hard. We don't want to put it into the fence.

"So far, everybody else (who hasn't qualified) is running about the same speed. It's going to be a waiting game. We're all waiting each other out. Rain either today or tomorrow would make a big difference. Nobody is going to settle for a slow speed if it looks like we might get some rain or if temperatures cool off a bit for this weekend."

This Saturday and Sunday are the last days of qualifying for the 500-mile race May 29. Twenty-one cars qualified last weekend, with 12 spots in the starting field open. The slowest speed posted on the opening weekend of qualifications was 186.596, by veteran Gary Bettenhausen.

Tigers Drop Contest To Eagles, 5-2

Circleville hosted Madison Plains Wednesday and dropped a 5-2 decision to the Golden Eagles and their ace moundsman Pete Sullivan.

Sullivan scattered seven hits, fanned seven and didn't issue a walk to gain the victory.

Brett Allen went the distance for the Tigers as he allowed 11 hits, one walk and struck out one.

Plains tallied twice in the top of the first inning and added single runs in the second, sixth and seventh.

The Tigers scored both their runs in the bottom of the second when Allen reached on an error, Brad Allison singled, both moved up on Joe Mogan's sacrifice and raced home on a single by Brian Fath.

Allison led the Tigers with a double and single. Fath rapped two singles while Mearle Logan, Eric Berger, and Allen each had one single.

Pete Sullivan aided his own cause for the Eagles with a triple and double. Circleville is now 7-9 for the season, 4-6 in the South Central Ohio League, and will host Hillsboro 4:30 p.m. Friday.

The Tiger reserves will be at Unioto 10 a.m. Saturday in a doubleheader.

Golfing Greats Set For Muirfield Play

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — It was like old times—Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player and Arnold Palmer, once professional golf's Big Three, honing their games in front of a huge gallery.

"It's been two or three years since we all played together," Player said of the famed threesome that owns a collective 141 tour titles and 29 major championships.

The dominance of the Big Three has so eroded that only Nicklaus has an American tour victory in 1977. And only Player expressed confidence of winning the $225,000 Memorial Tournament starting today.

"I feel I will have a win. It's just a matter of continuing to play. I'm confident," said Player on Wednesday after matching Nicklaus' practice round of three-under-par 69.

Palmer had 74. Andy Bean shot 73 with his celebrated partners.

"It's a disadvantage for me playing on my own course," said Nicklaus, who created this $7 million Muirfield Village layout in rolling farmland of central Ohio four years ago.

"I'm not really overwhelmed with my game now," said the 47-year-old Palmer. "It's a matter of building back my confidence I've lost over the last few years. I'm not making as many birdies as I've had."

At this point of the year, Nicklaus has withstood the charge of the Young Lions. He's won at Inverrary and the Tournament of Champions and finished in the top seven in six of nine starts. His $157,000-plus ranks him third in 1977 earnings.

Player also has appeared in nine American tournaments. His best finish was a second to Nicklaus at Inverrary. The little South African stands 17th on the money list with more than $58,000.

Palmer, four-time Masters champion, has missed the cut four times in 11 events. Only four of his 37 rounds have been in the 60s. He's 99th on the money list with under $11,000.

Nicklaus showed his partners the subtleties of Muirfield's lush fairways and slick greens. Palmer was seeing the course for the first time. Player played in a pro-am at Muirfield Village two years ago.

Both were complimentary of Nicklaus' creation.

Tiger Girls Rally Brings Victory

Sue Radcliff slammed a double in the bottom of the seventh inning to plate the winning run and give the Circleville Tigers an 11-10 come-from-behind win over Amanda-Clearcreek.

Jane Cole hurled the win for the Tigers while Rodgers and Cranford shared the mound for the losers.

Karen Lundberg had a triple and three singles, Becky Peters two doubles and three singles, Mary Wyatt two singles, Penny Perkins two singles, Wanda Boyd a homer and single, Sue Radcliff a double and single, Michelle Nolan a double and two singles, Jane Cole a home run while Kathy Morehart and Melissa Allison each had a single.

Circleville is now 12-2 for the season, 4-1 in the South Central Ohio League where they are co-champions with Miami Trace, and will host Hamilton Twp. 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Todd Gibson Wants Rain On Brickyard

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—For Todd Gibson, it's a waiting game.

The 40-year-old driver from Richmond, Ohio, had his No. 22 racing car on the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway for several laps Wednesday, but was only running in the low 180s.

"It's still slippery," Gibson said of the track, a common complaint from most of the drivers as the oil and rubber collected in the groove after 12 days of traffic with no rain to wash off the race course.

"We were doing 186 last week and hoping to get 188-190. But it's gotten awfully slippery. We're doing 181 right now. Last week we had several laps at 188."

"We want to get in (the 33-car starting field) solid. We'd like to have 190. That would put us in sure," Gibson said in his garage Wednesday.

Gibson was out twice during qualifications last Saturday but didn't take the green flag for an actual qualification attempt either time. He went out for the first time at 12:55 p.m. in his Eagle-Offenhauser and took three warmup laps before coming in without taking the green flag. His next time out at 5:15 p.m. was a repeat performance of the earlier run.

Gibson passed his driver's refresher test at the Speedway on May 7, the first day the track was open for practice.

"We put a new motor in (this week) and we're breaking it in right now. We're trying to get it dialed in. We're not pushing too hard. We don't want to put it into the fence."

"So far, everybody else (who hasn't qualified) is running about the same speed. It's going to be a waiting game. We're all waiting each other out. Rain either today or tomorrow would make a big difference. Nobody is going to settle for a slow speed if it looks like we might get some rain or if temperatures cool off a bit for this weekend."

This Saturday and Sunday are the last days of qualifying for the 500-mile race May 29. Twenty-one cars qualified last weekend, with 12 spots in the starting field open. The slowest speed posted on the opening weekend of qualifications was 186.596, by veteran Gary Bettenhausen.

Tigers Drop Contest To Eagles, 5-2

Circleville hosted Madison Plains Wednesday and dropped a 5-2 decision to the Golden Eagles and their ace moundsman Pete Sullivan.

Sullivan scattered seven hits, fanned seven and didn't issue a walk to gain the victory.

Brett Allen went the distance for the Tigers as he allowed 11 hits, one walk and struck out one.

Plains tallied twice in the top of the first inning and added single runs in the second, sixth and seventh.

The Tigers scored both their runs in the bottom of the second when Allen reached on an error, Brad Allison singled, both moved up on Joe Mogan's sacrifice and raced home on a single by Brian Fath.

Allison led the Tigers with a double and single. Fath rapped two singles while Marleie Logan, Eric Berger, and Allen each had one single.

Pete Sullivan aided his own cause for the Eagles with a triple and double. Circleville is now 7-9 for the season, 4-6 in the South Central Ohio League, and will host Hillsboro 4:30 p.m. Friday.

The Tiger reserves will be at Unioto 10 a.m. Saturday in a doubleheader.

9 Lose Suit For Injuries In Rioting

CLEVELAND (AP) — Eight Cleveland policemen and a tow truck driver say they will appeal a judge's order dismissing their $8.8 million damage suit resulting from injuries they allegedly received in a 1968 neighborhood disturbance.

The nine were wounded in the 1968 Glenville district shootout which started when officers tried to tow away a car.

Naming former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes and others as defendants, the plaintiffs had sought to pin them with responsibility for their injuries.

They claimed that weapons which black militants used in the shootings were financed indirectly by CLEVELAND: NOW!, a now-defunct civic revitalization program which was developed under Stokes.

The case was thrown out Wednesday by visiting Common Pleas Court Judge John Bacon of Meigs County. After the plaintiffs had finished presenting their case, Bacon ruled that the evidence failed to show that official negligence caused the Glenville riot.

Former Patrolman Angelo Santa Maria, who was unable to walk for two years after being shot, was bitter over the ruling.

"All we were asking was that we be judged by a jury of eight," Santa Maria said. "But we didn't get that chance. We were judged by one."

Robert Lowell Receives Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lowell is "the most brilliant poet of his generation," the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters said in awarding him a $10,000 literature prize.

"He has had the courage to keep changing his style," a citation accompanying the award said Wednesday.

The American-born Lowell, who published his first book of poems in 1944, also holds the Pulitzer Prize, National Book Award, Bollingen Prize, Copernicus Award, and the Brandeis University Creative Arts Award for Poetry.

Saul Bellow, a Nobel Prize winner who also holds a Pulitzer and a National Book Award, was the gold medalist for the novel. A gold medal for sculpture went to Isamu Noguchi, 72, an artist whose works are on display in Atlanta, Palm Beach, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, New Haven, Conn., New York and Seattle.

The $1,000 distinguished service award went to James Laughlin, founder of New Directions publishing and its president since 1937. Henry N. Cobb, a founding member of I.M. Pei & Partners, won the Arnold W. Brunner Prize in Architecture.

Prison Officials Seek More Room

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's juvenile and adult prison officials seem to be making a solid case for a $275 million bond issue proposal being heard today by the House Judiciary Committee.

However, it needs three-fifths approval by both houses of the legislature, and the blessing of voters in the November election—in a year of state budget scraping in which both political parties are pledged to no new or increased taxes.

But with bipartisan sponsorship from Reps. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, and Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, the bond issue would enable Ohioans to increase their own taxes, if they so choose.

Perhaps appropriately, Lehman and Norris selected "sin" taxes as the source of revenues to build new facilities for lawbreakers—those on cigarettes and whisky.

Under the proposal, the cigarette tax would be hiked by a penny a pack, and liquor by about 15 cents a fifth, based on estimates of what it would take to retire the $275 million in bonds.

The 30-year bonds would permit $200 million to be spent for state adult correction facilities, $25 million for state youth commission facilities, and $50 million for grants to counties and municipalities for one-third of their costs in constructing similar facilities.

George F. Denton, director of the rehabilitation and correction department, told the judiciary committee that the increase in Ohio's prison population in recent years has been astronomical—nearly doubled from 7,717 on Jan. 1, 1974 to 13,189 on April 18, 1977.

"The number of inmates has continued to climb at the rate of approximately 100 per month during the current fiscal year," Denton said. At present rates, inmate populations could reach 18,000 by the year 1985.

Denton said the present population of 13,189 is 2,000 more than the 11,213 units available for single inmate housing—even in antiquated buildings.

In a report, Denton's department proposed to the committee the construction of 16 new facilities costing $174.2 million, including $50 million for a central, 120-bed hospital and related reception facilities on the site of the old Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

The department wants to construct three new dormitories for youthful offenders with capacities of 800 inmates each — two at the present Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield and the third at the Lebanon correctional facility.

Also proposed is $9 million for a 350-bed dormitory at the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville; five regional correctional facilities for 450 inmates each in the Cleveland and Cincinnati-Dayton areas, a 300-inmate facility at Columbus, 380-bed unit at Akron-Youngstown, and a 250-inmate facility in the Toledo area.

The department proposes $2.1 million for "reintegration" centers of 40 inmates each in Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland, to provide programming and housing for technical parole violators not requiring incarceration in larger facilities.

Woman's Poetry Book Turns Back Years

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — As a young girl growing up in the hills of Kentucky, Ida Bachman loved to write poetry, feeling she was inspired by God, home and family.

Now, at age 77, she has published her first book of poetry. Poems in the book include some that were written years ago.

"I would write my poems on paper with a pencil," said Mrs. Bachman.

The poetry remained in that form until almost 10 years ago when she decided to type them.

"That took quite a bit of work," she said. "I had to revise and revise."

The end product is the volume, "My Mothers Garden," a collection of 46 of her poems published by Avonelle Associates Ltd. of Columbus.

The title poem commemorates her mother's garden located on the family farm in Kentucky, and a deep faith in God which she has sustained through life.

In the book's preface, she describes the garden:

"Father had built a small bridge across the creek to lead into mother's garden. So it was here at twilight sister Eva and I crossed the bridge, opened the gate and entered the garden."

"To the right of the gate was the

Abraham Beame

Running Again

NEW YORK (AP) — "I want to finish the job and I am the only one who can do it....," said Mayor Abraham D. Beame, announcing that he was a candidate for re-election.

Speaking Wednesday at a news conference on the sunwashed lawn of Gracie Mansion, his official residence overlooking the East River, Beame said his age, 71, will prove no problem in seeking another four-year term.

He challenged reporters to "test me by running around the block with me," and his wife Mary said, "Chronological age doesn't mean a darn thing."

9 Lose Suit For Injuries In Rioting

CLEVELAND (AP) — Eight Cleveland policemen and a tow truck driver say they will appeal a judge's order dismissing their $8.8 million damage suit resulting from injuries they allegedly received in a 1968 neighborhood disturbance.

The nine were wounded in the 1968 Glenville district shootout which started when officers tried to tow away a car.

Naming former Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes and others as defendants, the plaintiffs had sought to pin them with responsibility for their injuries.

They claimed that weapons which black militants used in the shootings were financed indirectly by CLEVELAND: NOW!, a now-defunct civic revitalization program which was developed under Stokes.

The case was thrown out Wednesday by visiting Common Pleas Court Judge John Bacon of Meigs County. After the plaintiffs had finished presenting their case, Bacon ruled that the evidence failed to show that official negligence caused the Glenville riot.

Former Patrolman Angelo Santa Maria, who was unable to walk for two years after being shot, was bitter over the ruling.

"All we were asking was that we be judged by a jury of eight," Santa Maria said. "But we didn't get that chance. We were judged by one."

Robert Lowell Receives Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Lowell is "the most brilliant poet of his generation," the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters said in awarding him a $10,000 literature prize.

"He has had the courage to keep changing his style," a citation accompanying the award said Wednesday.

The American-born Lowell, who published his first book of poems in 1944, also holds the Pulitzer Prize, National Book Award, Bollingen Prize, Copernicus Award, and the Brandeis University Creative Arts Award for Poetry.

Saul Bellow, a Nobel Prize winner who also holds a Pulitzer and a National Book Award, was the gold medalist for the novel. A gold medal for sculpture went to Isamu Noguchi, 72, an artist whose works are on display in Atlanta, Palm Beach, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, New Haven, Conn., New York and Seattle.

The $1,000 distinguished service award went to James Laughlin, founder of New Directions publishing and its president since 1937. Henry N. Cobb, a founding member of I.M. Pei & Partners, won the Arnold W. Brunner Prize in Architecture.

Prison Officials Seek More Room

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's juvenile and adult prison officials seem to be making a solid case for a $275 million bond issue proposal being heard today by the House Judiciary Committee.

However, it needs three-fifths approval by both houses of the legislature, and the blessing of voters in the November election—in a year of state budget scraping in which both political parties are pledged to no new or increased taxes.

But with bipartisan sponsorship from Reps. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, and Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, the bond issue would enable Ohioans to increase their own taxes, if they so choose.

Perhaps appropriately, Lehman and Norris selected "sin" taxes as the source of revenues to build new facilities for lawbreakers—those on cigarettes and whisky.

Under the proposal, the cigarette tax would be hiked by a penny a pack, and liquor by about 15 cents a fifth, based on estimates of what it would take to retire the $275 million in bonds.

The 30-year bonds would permit $200 million to be spent for state adult correction facilities, $25 million for state youth commission facilities, and $50 million for grants to counties and municipalities for one-third of their costs in constructing similar facilities.

George F. Denton, director of the rehabilitation and correction department, told the judiciary committee that the increase in Ohio's prison population in recent years has been astronomical—nearly doubled from 7,717 on Jan. 1, 1974 to 13,189 on April 18, 1977.

"The number of inmates has continued to climb at the rate of approximately 100 per month during the current fiscal year," Denton said. At present rates, inmate populations could reach 18,000 by the year 1985.

Denton said the present population of 13,189 is 2,000 more than the 11,213 units available for single inmate housing—even in antiquated buildings.

In a report, Denton's department proposed to the committee the construction of 16 new facilities costing $174.2 million, including $50 million for a central, 120-bed hospital and related reception facilities on the site of the old Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus.

The department wants to construct three new dormitories for youthful offenders with capacities of 800 inmates each — two at the present Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield and the third at the Lebanon correctional facility.

Also proposed is $9 million for a 350-bed dormitory at the Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville; five regional correctional facilities for 450 inmates each in the Cleveland and Cincinnati-Dayton areas, a 300-inmate facility at Columbus, 380-bed unit at Akron-Youngstown, and a 250-inmate facility in the Toledo area.

The department proposes $2.1 million for "reintegration" centers of 40 inmates each in Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland, to provide programming and housing for technical parole violators not requiring incarceration in larger facilities.

Woman's Poetry Book Turns Back Years

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — As a young girl growing up in the hills of Kentucky, Ida Bachman loved to write poetry, feeling she was inspired by God, home and family.

Now, at age 77, she has published her first book of poetry. Poems in the book include some that were written years ago.

"I would write my poems on paper with a pencil," said Mrs. Bachman.

The poetry remained in that form until almost 10 years ago when she decided to type them.

"That took quite a bit of work," she said. "I had to revise and revise."

The end product is the volume, "My Mothers Garden," a collection of 46 of her poems published by Avonelle Associates Ltd. of Columbus.

The title poem commemorates her mothers garden located on the family farm in Kentucky, and a deep faith in God which she has sustained through life.

In the book's preface, she describes the garden:

"Father had built a small bridge across the creek to lead into mother's garden. So it was here at twilight sister Eva and I crossed the bridge, opened the gate and entered the garden."

"To the right of the gate was the grape arbor full of luscious grapes, to the left, mother had planted all kinds of flowers. Lilacs, lilies, rambler roses, zinnias, marigolds and many other flowers grew in her garden."

Mrs. Bachman, who published the book under her maiden name, was one of 13 children. She says religion has always been a major part of her life.

"All we kids ever knew was church work," she said.

She and her brothers and sisters were reared in the Missionary Baptist Church.

"We went to that church until we were all grown, or until we left home to find work in the city and became associated with other churches," she said.

Mrs. Bachman married and moved to Hamilton by the age of 22 and has lived in this area since.

The move brought greater opportunities for her to continue her evangelistic work.

In 1938, along with a friend, she would visit the jail to talk with female prisoners. In 1941, she and the Ladies Missionary Society held a prayer day once a month at various churches.

She has also helped daily vacation Bible schools in Pennsylvania and assisted in several church surveys.

Most recently she has traveled to churches as a flannel graph artist using pictures to portray Bible stories.

"I just started out to do the work I was called to do," said Mrs. Bachman, "and it's been a very gratifying life."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This Friday marks the 50th anniversary of Charles A. Lindbergh's historic New York-to-Paris solo flight. NBC is noting it by airing "The Spirit of St. Louis" on Friday night.

The 1957 film about the man they called "Lucky Lindy" stars Jimmy Stewart, the tall, lanky veteran actor and self-professed flying nut who'd wanted to play the Lindbergh role for years.

Stewart chuckled in recalling a time shortly after the film's premiere when Lindbergh telephoned him, said he hadn't seen the movie yet, but that his wife and children had and they liked it. Whereupon the aviator turned the phone over to his wife, Stewart said, and Mrs. Lindbergh told him: "At one point in the flight, when you were sort of getting out of the ice storm and were down close to the water, one of the children leaned over to me and said, 'Mommy, Daddy does make it, doesn't he?'"

Stewart, who turned 15 the day Lindbergh took off for Paris, was asked about his first trip aloft in a plane.

"I was about 11," he said in that famous drawl that has sustained nearly three generations of night club mimics. "I went up in an old Curtiss pusher with Ruth Dare, a wonderful pilot."

"I don't know if this means anything, but on our way out to the airport, my dad picked up the family doctor."

Stewart since has flown all manner of aircraft, from the biplane in which he soloed in 1935, to B24s he flew in combat in World War II, to B52 jet bombers during his career in the Air Force Reserve.

The actor, who retired as an Air Force brigadier general in 1969, still occasionally drifts around the skies of Southern California, not in a jet, but in a tiny plane whose predecessor was the VW of aviation.

He grinned like a proud father and pulled a photograph of it from his wallet. The bird was a two-place, single-engine Piper Super Cub. He says it can do 100 m.p.h. "with a good tailwind."

Stewart, who learned to fly in an era where pilots heard the wind whistling through the wires, worried whether the canvas on the wing would stay put, was asked if he thinks the fun's gone in this jet age.

"I think it has, in a way," he mused. "But I still have fun in my plane because it's very noisy and very uncomfortable, especially for somebody with legs as long as mine."

"It's a wonderful plane because it takes your mind off everything else. You can't think of anything else but flying it. You have to keep your mind on what you're doing."

He did mildly grouse about the fact that because of the increasingly crowded skies, he now must keep in contact with air traffic control centers, fiddle with radio devices called transponders, constantly report his position and stay alert for reports of traffic near his airplane.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR FRIDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Follow your best judgment now. Even if you should make mistakes, they're YOURS — and less troublesome than those caused by another's well-intentioned but erroneous advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An excellent outlook! Day's activities should prove even more successful than anticipated; could even act as a springboard to further progress.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The old saw about the pen being mightier than the sword has not lost its validity. Now's the time to use your innate gift for writing — and get what you want.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some strain in key associations possible. Probe deeply to find the cause, the better to cope with it effectively. In any case, keep your sense of humor intact.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A period for reviewing. You may have to rechange some procedures, systems, tie up some loose ends. Re-examination of long-range projects especially important.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some excellent opportunities indicated but, with them, a few more responsibilities. Accept them graciously and you will reap fine dividends later.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Consider new methods and techniques, but don't overreach your capacities. Neither be overanxious. Impress others with your poise and good judgment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Aspects indicate the possibility of some deception in your area. Be alert and ready to counteract with firmness. Above all, avoid those who have deceived you before.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Be ready to face competition. You usually enjoy the stimulation of this, but don't burn the candle at both ends in your desire to get ahead. Easy does it!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Not much planetary help here. In general, it would be better to stick to routine matters. Perhaps, too, to take a little time to make some long-range plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some astute checking could save you time, prevent wasted energy and costly errors. Don't divert efforts into unproductive channels.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Pay no heed to glowing reports or sensational rumors — especially if finances are involved. Keep on an even keel and you should do well.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect and a special affinity for healing. You could make a great success in any aspect of the medical profession — as physician, surgeon, nurse; may even make great discoveries which alleviate suffering or bring about swifter cures. You are a humanitarian at heart and are a constant source of joy and comfort to the underprivileged. You have other talents, too, and could succeed in business — especially as a publisher or a dealer in real estate; in a profession, as a corporation lawyer or diplomat; as a writer, musician or agriculturist. Though you love to travel, you are devoted to home and family, and there is an artistic touch to everything you do. Birthdate of: Honore de Balzac, French novelist; Jean L. Agassiz, naturalist.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Follow your best judgment now. Even if you should make mistakes, they're YOURS — and less troublesome than those caused by another's well-intentioned but erroneous advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An excellent outlook! Day's activities should prove even more successful than anticipated; could even act as a springboard to further progress.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The old saw about the pen being mightier than the sword has not lost its validity. Now's the time to use your innate gift for writing — and get what you want.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Some strain in key associations possible. Probe deeply to find the cause, the better to cope with it effectively. In any case, keep your sense of humor intact.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): A period for reviewing. You may have to rechange some procedures, systems, tie up some loose ends. Re-examination of long-range projects especially important.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some excellent opportunities indicated but, with them, a few more responsibilities. Accept them gracefully and you will reap fine dividends later.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Consider new methods and techniques, but don't overreach your capacities. Neither be overanxious. Impress others with your poise and good judgment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Aspects indicate the possibility of some deception in your area. Be alert and ready to counteract with firmness. Above all, avoid those who have deceived you before.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Be ready to face competition. You usually enjoy the stimulation of this, but don't burn the candle at both ends in your desire to get ahead. Easy does it!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Not much planetary help here. In general, it would be better to stick to routine matters. Perhaps, too, to take a little time to make some long-range plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Some astute checking could save you time, prevent wasted energy and costly errors. Don't divert efforts into unproductive channels.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Pay no heed to glowing reports or sensational rumors — especially if finances are involved. Keep on an even keel and you should do well.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a brilliant intellect and a special affinity for healing. You could make a great success in any aspect of the medical profession — as physician, surgeon, nurse; may even make great discoveries which alleviate suffering or bring about swifter cures. You are a humanitarian at heart and are a constant source of joy and comfort to the underprivileged. You have other talents, too, and could succeed in business — especially as a publisher or a dealer in real estate; in a profession, as a corporation lawyer or diplomat; as a writer, musician or agriculturist. Though you love to travel, you are devoted to home and family, and there is an artistic touch to everything you do. Birthdate of: Honore de Balzac, French novelist; Jean L. Agassiz, naturalist.

Judge Ammer Grants Shock Probation To Defendant

Shock probation was denied one man, and another was given a prison term by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer.

A motion for shock probation filed by William David Moore, 18, Columbus, was denied after Judge Ammer noted the seriousness of his crimes and the extreme damage done in committing burglaries.

Moore pleaded guilty Nov. 10, 1976, to three charges of aggravated burglary and three counts of grand theft.

He was sentenced to concurrent terms of from 4 to 25 years and from 6 months to 5 years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

Bethel Ray Frisbie, Washington C.H., was sentenced to a term of from 6 months to 5 years in the Ohio Penitentiary after pleading guilty to a charge of passing bad checks.

His prison term will run concurrent with a term being served from Fayette County.

Judge Ammer suspended prison terms imposed against three men and placed them on probation.

Wallace Dean Hatfield, 37, 319 E. Corwin St., was placed on probation for four years.

He pleaded guilty March 2 to a charge of grand theft and was sentenced to a term of from 2 to 5 years in the Ohio Penitentiary.

In ordering probation, Judge Ammer said that Hatfield must stay away from all places where there are horses or horse supplies, must pay a fine of $250, and must serve 45 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

Albert Junior Stevens, 47, Route 10, Chillicothe, was given probation for three years.

He had been sentenced to a term of from 2 to 5 years in the Ohio Penitentiary after pleading guilty March 2 to receiving stolen property.

In ruling for probation, Judge Ammer ordered that Stevens must stay out of Pickaway County, must make restitution, must not associate with certain individuals, and must serve 60 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

Keith Allen Harter, 21, Wellston, was given probation for three years.

He was originally sentenced to a term of from one to 5 years in the Mansfield Reformatory after pleading guilty March 2 to charges of forgery and receiving stolen property.

In ruling for probation, Judge Ammer ordered Harter to not own or use any credit cards or checks, to make restitution, and to seek counseling.

Probation was revoked on Hollie Paul Showalter, 50, Route 1, New Holland, and he was sentenced to the Ohio Penitentiary to serve a 2 to 5 year term.

Showalter admitted violating terms of his probation by violating the law, failing to pay court costs, and failing to maintain employment.

He pleaded guilty June 17, 1964, to obstructing justice by harboring an escapee from the London Correctional Institute, and was given probation at that time.

Jury trials will be set for two defendants who entered not guilty pleas at arraignments.

Trial of Lillie J. Edwards, Route 2, Ashville, will be June 22. She is charged with grand theft in the illegal obtaining of social security payments and food stamps.

Trial will be set for Franklin Daniel Neal, 409 E. Mound St., who is charged with complicity in disposing of stolen property.

He is charged with aiding another man by contracting to sell a car which had been stolen.

Even though Paul David Leach, 19, Route 1, Williamsport, admitted violating terms of probation, Judge Ammer ordered that probation be continued.

He was found guilty by a jury of grand theft on Feb. 2, 1976, and sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory on a term of from 6 months to 5 years.

Judge Ammer granted shock probation June 30, 1976.

Leach violated terms of probation by being intoxicated, assaulting a minor, failing to pay court costs, and failing to make restitution.

He was ordered to make specific amounts of restitution and court cost payments each month.

Pre-sentence reports were ordered on three defendants.

They are Bobby Lee Payne, Route 1, Laurelville, who pleaded guilty to a charge of disposing of stolen property; Michael Anthony Smith, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, who pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and grand theft; and David Lowery, 219 Second Ave., who pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and grand theft.

The State of Ohio was represented by Pickaway County Prosecuting Attorney James Kingsley at the arraignments.

Senior Citizens Hold Morning Devotions

The Rev. Roy Heimbach led the morning devotions in the Shelter House at Pickaway Senior Center Wednesday.

The Bloomfields from Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union provided special music.

The inspirational message was given by the Rev. Heimbach and group singing was led by Lucille Scott with Ray Beery as pianist.

This is the first of a summer series of morning devotions to be held on the lawn at Pickaway Senior Center with the next to be held on June 15 at 10:30 a.m.

The Friendly Visitors of Pickaway Senior Center hosted a Shut-in party at Pickaway Senior Center on Monday.

Fifty-five people were in attendance. Mary Ann Carle played the accordion for group singing. Edith Russell played several numbers on the guitar and the Rev. Ronald Brandt, of Bridgeport, gave an impersonation of Judas Iscariot and sang The Holy City.

Refreshments were served by Della Workman and Jenny Eccard assisted by Jenny Huffman and Clara DeLong.

There were over a hundred people attending the Senior Citizen Sunday at Hebron Church on Crownover Mill Road. Ministers and members of many churches in Pickaway County came for the picnic and the afternoon program.

The program was opened by the Rev. McDowell of Hebron and New Holland who gave the invocation and welcomed those in attendance.

The Kitchen Band of Pickaway Senior Center served as choir with Ray Beery as pianist. Special numbers were introduced by the Rev. Roy Heimbach. Special numbers were given by Bill Straehle, Pauline Jones, Charlotte Hill, Evalina Wolford, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, John Miranda, Harold Neff, and a quartet; Ruth Miranda, Lucille Scott, Pauline Jones and Wanda Hamilton. The Pickaway Senior Center Kitchen Band sang two numbers. The program was well received and gave a good account of the talent available among the Senior Citizens of Pickaway County.

Pilot Unscathed In Light Plane Crash Landing

The old saying that "any landing you can walk away from is a good landing" certainly came true for a 48-year-old Mt. Sterling man Tuesday morning.

Raymond E. Kennedy walked away unscathed from a light plane crash at 9 p.m. at Wardell's private airstrip, two and one-half miles north of Derby.

According to the report of Trooper Bill Cubbison of the Highway Patrol, Kennedy was practicing takeoffs and landings at the airstrip when he misjudged the landing area and struck a fence and small tree.

The single engine plane suffered heavy damage but Kennedy did not even require medical attention.

Trial will be set for Franklin Daniel Neal, 409 E. Mound St., who is charged with complicity in disposing of stolen property.

He is charged with aiding another man by contracting to sell a car which had been stolen.

Even though Paul David Leach, 19, Route 1, Williamsport, admitted violating terms of probation, Judge Ammer ordered that probation be continued.

He was found guilty by a jury of grand theft on Feb. 2, 1976, and sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory on a term of from 6 months to 5 years.

Judge Ammer granted shock probation June 30, 1976.

Leach violated terms of probation by being intoxicated, assaulting a minor, failing to pay court costs, and failing to make restitution.

He was ordered to make specific amounts of restitution and court cost payments each month.

Pre-sentence reports were ordered on three defendants.

They are Bobby Lee Payne, Route 1, Laurelville, who pleaded guilty to a charge of disposing of stolen property; Michael Anthony Smith, Route 1, Mt. Sterling, who pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and grand theft; and David Lowery, 219 Second Ave., who pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and grand theft.

The State of Ohio was represented by Pickaway County Prosecuting Attorney James Kingsley at the arraignments.

Senior Citizens Hold Morning Devotions

The Rev. Roy Heimbach led the morning devotions in the Shelter House at Pickaway Senior Center Wednesday.

The Bloomfields from Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union provided special music.

The inspirational message was given by the Rev. Heimbach and group singing was led by Lucille Scott with Ray Beery as pianist.

This is the first of a summer series of morning devotions to be held on the lawn at Pickaway Senior Center with the next to be held on June 15 at 10:30 a.m.

The Friendly Visitors of Pickaway Senior Center hosted a Shut-in party at Pickaway Senior Center on Monday.

Fifty-five people were in attendance.

Mary Ann Carle played the accordion for group singing. Edith Russell played several numbers on the guitar and the Rev. Ronald Brandt, of Bridgeport, gave an impersonation of Judas Iscariot and sang The Holy City.

Refreshments were served by Della Workman and Jenny Eccard assisted by Jenny Huffman and Clara DeLong.

There were over a hundred people attending the Senior Citizen Sunday at Hebron Church on Crownover Mill Road. Ministers and members of many churches in Pickaway County came for the picnic and the afternoon program.

The program was opened by the Rev. McDowell of Hebron and New Holland who gave the invocation and welcomed those in attendance.

The Kitchen Band of Pickaway Senior Center served as choir with Ray Beery as pianist. Special numbers were introduced by the Rev. Roy Heimbach. Special numbers were given by Bill Straehle, Pauline Jones, Charlotte Hill, Evalina Wolford, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Smith, John Miranda, Harold Neff, and a quartet; Ruth Miranda, Lucille Scott, Pauline Jones and Wanda Hamilton. The Pickaway Senior Center Kitchen Band sang two numbers. The program was well received and gave a good account of the talent available among the Senior Citizens of Pickaway County.

Kings Island To Open

KINGS MILLS — Grand Opening of the 1977 season at Kings Island Saturday, May 28 will be celebrated with a colorful parade by marching bands, the release of helium-filled balloons, and outdoor concerts by Dick Clark's Good Ol' Rock 'N Roll revue.

Featured performers in the revue, Dick Clark, Fabian, Dion, and Bobby Lewis, will appear at 3:30 and 8:30 p.m. May 28 and 29 in the family entertainment center's Stadium of The Stars.

The highly talented rock 'n roll band, Flash Cadillac, is scheduled to entertain at the same times on May 30.

Dick Clark, a 26-year veteran in the entertainment industry, began his career as a radio disc jockey in 1951 and in 1956 was named host of the nation's first TV dance party show, "American Bandstand". The show recently celebrated its silver anniversary with an ABC-TV special.

Currently Clark heads a national business with projects in all phases of the industry and also hosts ABC-TV's daytime game show, "$20,000 Pyramid".

Fabian, a hit singer in the 1950's, has appeared in 25 motion pictures, including "Hound Dog Man", opposite Carol Lynley, and on numerous television programs. At the age of 15 he won the Silver Record Award as "The Most Promising Male Vocalist of 1958".

Fabian recently renewed his singing career and signed a six-year pact with the Cream Label.

Dion, formerly of Dion and The Belmonts, a popular 1960's group, had two hit records in "Teenager in Love" and "Abraham, Martin, and John." A singer-songwriter, he now records on the Warner Brothers label. Last year his big single was "Street Heart".

Singer Bobby Lewis also launched his career in the 1950's. He is best known for his hit record "Tossin' and Turnin'".

The high-energy rock band, Flash Cadillac, recently completed a motion picture with actor Marlon Brando entitled "Apocalypse Now", under the direction of Francis Ford Coppola. The group's hit record on the Private Stock label last year was "Did You Boogie With Your Baby?"

Flash Cadillac also appeared on a segment of the renowned "Happy Days" television program last season and portrayed a band called "Johnny Fish and the Fins".

Daily operation begins at Kings Island with Grand Opening and continues through Labor Day. The park will be open on weekends thereafter until October 16.
